ecover Nine Bodies from Train Wreck

archers Work Through The Night In Effort To Locate Additional Bodies in Death Car—Pullman Is Submerged In Flooded Creek.

Stratton, Col., July 19 (AP).—Nine bodies had been recovered early today from the wreckage of the Chicago, Rock Island and Pacific's crack passenger train which plunged through a flood-weakened bridge into an arroyo a few miles from here at dawn yesterday morning.

Flood lamps rigged on wrecking cranes lighted the twisted steel Pullmans as searchers worked through the night in an effort to locate additional bodies in the death car—"the Cape Porpoise"—still submerged beneath the torrent that poured down the ordinarily dry creek bed.

On each bank of the stream other Pullman and baggage cars were piled, two of the Pullmans half submerged in the arroyo.

Eight of the bodies were taken from "The Cape Porpoise," which was so completely submerged that it was two hours after the wreck before it was realized that one of the cars in the train was missing. The ninth body, that of a negro Pullman porter, was found a mile down stream from the wreck.

Scores of the more than 100 passengers aboard the train were injured and were taken to hospitals.

Passengers on the train said most of them were awake when the accident occurred. A few minutes before, the train, westbound, had pulled into a siding to permit the passage of the eastbound train over the same tracks. The eastbound train passed over the bridge 45 minutes before the disaster to the westbound.

Many of the passengers were preparing for their first view of the Rocky Mountains. The dawn was breaking as the train sped westward, at an estimated speed of 45 miles an hour.

Engineer M. V. Ryan of Colorado Springs, Col., a veteran of 25 years service on the Rock Island, and pilot of the head engine of the double header, said the engine crossed the bridge safely. The structure gave way as the rear wheels of the baggage car passed over it. The car cleared the bridge and plunged off the track, turning over. A second Pullman almost cleared the arroyo, its rear section only falling into the stream. The next car, "The Cape Porpoise," was submerged and the front section of the Pullman next in line fell into the water. The remainder of the 13 coaches were strewn about the prairie.

Ryan disconnected his engine from the baggage car and raced it to Vonah, four miles away, where he reported the accident, returning immediately to aid in the rescue work.

Gives Account of Wreck.

Morris Gest, New York theatrical producer, gave a graphic account of the wreck.

"It was terrible, one of the most terrible experiences of my life," he said, "and yet everyone seemed calm. There was none of the screaming and the panic that usually is associated with a catastrophe of the kind.

"My first realization of the crash came as the car in which I was riding turned on its side (Gest's car was the one behind the death car) and I was thrown upside down. I climbed out through a window unhurt.

"My secretary, Abie Kritzer, crawled back into the car to see if he could find a book containing press clippings. In the dim gray of the inside of the car he saw a woman struggling and pulled her through the window to the outside. Water was seeping into the car and without his aid she might have drowned. And yet everyone was calm. I made several suggestions of ways of getting into the submerged car, and as they were tried out, it was just as though I was directing some play."

The producer, attired in a pair of nondescript trousers and the lavendar coat of his silk pajamas, arrived in Denver last night, having driven from the wreck. Kritzer wore a pair of borrowed golf knickers and a Pullman porter's coat. Both men lost their luggage.

E. J. Perry of New Bedford, Mass., the only survivor of the passengers in the death car, was awake when the car plunged into the water. He escaped by breaking a window and was carried a half mile down stream from the wreck before he reached the shore of the 50-foot wide stream.

Railroad men throughout yesterday sought to hoist the submerged car with derricks, but the rush of the water defeated their efforts. Last night fire engines from a nearby town endeavored to pump sufficient water from the arroyo to enable wrecking crews to release the coach, but without success.

While a complete check was impossible rumor persisted that several passengers were missing, and it was predicted two or three more bodies would be found in the coach.

PREPARING LIST OF DELINQUENT TAXPAYERS.

City Treasurer E. T. Shultis is busy preparing a list of delinquent taxpayers preparatory to advertising the properties for sale. There are a number of taxpayers who have failed to pay last year's taxes on their properties.

Roosevelt to Continue Tour

Governor Starts Monday on Second Half of His Itinerary—Will Visit Montreal Before Returning.

Albany, July 19 (AP).—The second half of Governor Roosevelt's good-will tour of the state, the itinerary of which has just been completed, will begin at Syracuse Monday morning. It will take the executive and his party along Lake Ontario, down the St. Lawrence to Montreal, thence back to New York state and down Lake Champlain and the Hudson to Waterford. The tour will end July 30.

After a week end at Hyde Park the Governor will entrain for Syracuse, there to board the state-owned yacht Inspector which will carry him and his party during most of the trip. He will sail up the Oswego Canal to the Oswego terminal where he plans to inspect the naval militia at 12:30 p. m., E. S. T. An inspection at Fort Ontario will be followed by a brief halt in Watertown before the executive goes to Pine Camp, nearby, to inspect troops there at 3:30 p. m. Then he will move on to Sackets Harbor and thence to Cape Vincent, where the first night will be passed.

Next morning he and his party will leave at 9 a. m. enroute to Ogdensburg via Clayton, Alexandria Bay and Morristown. They are due at Ogdensburg at 3:15 p. m. and will spend the night there. On July 24 the Governor will inspect the state hospital at Ogdensburg at 9:15, then go to Canton and on to Potsdam, where the executive will lunch with friends and inspect the state normal school. Afterward the party will spend an hour in Massena before continuing to Waddington to stop for the night.

The fourth day's schedule is: Cornwall, St. Regis, Hogansburg, Moira, Malone, Westville, Fort Covington, St. Regis, Cornwall. The party will inspect the school for the deaf at Malone at 2:15 p. m.

On July 26 the yacht will move down the St. Lawrence to Montreal where the Governor will say bon voyage to his wife and two younger sons, who will leave that day for Europe.

The schedule for the remainder of the tour follows:

July 27, leave Montreal for Sorel and Chambly. July 28, St. John's Rouses Point, Chazy Landing, Plattsburgh (6 p. m.) Inspection of state normal school, barracks, and C. M. T. C. July 29, leave Plattsburgh 9 a. m., inspect Clinton prison and state hospital at Dannemora (9:30 to 10:30), Port Kent, Essex, Westport, Port Henry, Crown Point, Montcalm Landing, Whitehall (7:15 p. m.)

July 30, leave Whitehall at 9 a. m., inspect prison at Comstock, then Fort Edward, Fort Miller, Schuylerville, Stillwater, Mechanicville to Waterford.

Arrest Follows An Auto Crash

Melvin Wolf of Abeel Street Arrested on Warrant Sworn out by Arthur Fiorelli of Gill Street—Case Adjourned for Week—Other Police Court Cases.

Melvin Wolf of Abeel street was arrested Thursday on a warrant sworn out by Arthur Fiorelli of Gill street, charging Wolf with reckless driving. This morning in police court the case was adjourned for one week. The arrest is the outcome of an automobile crash between the cars of Wolf and Fiorelli at the intersection of Henry street and Clinton avenue on Wednesday afternoon, in which William A. Frey was injured when one of the cars crashed into the parked car of Mr. Frey.

Everett Embree of 35 Manor Place, arrested for double parking on Wall street on Thursday, was given a suspended sentence.

John Lawler, a stranger who wanted to be given a little time in the county jail, was arrested as a vagrant on Thursday and this morning was sentenced to five days in the county jail.

Hoover Prepares For Tariff Fight

Washington, July 19 (AP).—The Washington Post today says "President Hoover has directed the tariff commission to give him a report of all Democratic members of the House and Democratic senators who have made requests of it."

"Presumably," it continues, "Mr. Hoover is preparing himself to get into the tariff fight.

"The report, it is understood, will be ready in a week or ten days. So far as can be learned, comparatively few Democrats have asked anything of the commission, at least increases, and in the instances in which they did, the increase was sought on agricultural products.

"The president's request, however, caused considerable surprise, it can not be, it is pointed out, that he has in mind reviewing the cases in which the Democrats have been turned down with a view to revising the action of his predecessor. The conclusion must be that he is arming himself for the tariff fight, that he intends to use the information himself or plans to turn it over to the administration senators."

Too Much Luxury Worries Farm Board Members

Board Moves Slowly and Depends Upon Press to Further Campaign of Education—Hosts of Receptive Patriots Would Help Cut $500,000,000 Melon.

Washington, July 19 (AP).—Laying the ground work for their task of organizing American agriculture, the Federal Farm Board is moving deliberately, as it promised.

Using the press as a medium of contact with the farmers and the public generally, the board has broadcast its policies as they have been determined around the table presided over by Alexander Legge, Chicago business man of a firm but good-natured disposition.

Chairman Legge thus has launched a campaign of education, and joined by Vice Chairman Stone has made its high point clear with an appeal to the farmers to organize into cooperative marketing associations, on a broad and more intensive scale than ever before. The board interprets the farm relief act as confining its activities to dealings with such associations, and wants the farmers to organize so it can help them most effectively.

Meanwhile, the veritable army of job hunters and the host of those who would dip into the $500,000,000 loan fund provided by Congress have knocked in vain at the board room doors while the members, in their shirt sleeves, have been getting acquainted and getting started.

Only one man has been hired by the board—Chris L. Christensen, cooperative marketing expert of the Department of Agriculture, who will serve as the secretary. Christensen, too, has gone behind the closed door with the board, leaving to the outer guard of stenographers drafted from the Department of Agriculture the heavy task of dealing with the scores of job seekers. So far, the soft spoken words of Miss Pauline Phur, a South Dakota girl and Department of Agriculture worker, have turned aside the hosts.

Carl Williams of Oklahoma, the cotton representative and a veteran newspaperman, has been the intermediary between the board and the press. It was Mr. Williams who intervened, therefore, when the good natured chairman, who has been in the habit of avoiding personal publicity, raised an outcry against the headlines which appeared on some of the farm board stories. Mr. Williams explained that each newspaper had its own headline writers, that the men who wrote the stories didn't write the heads, and that this accounted for the occasional variance.

All of them veterans of farm life, the board members are beginning to show some uneasiness about the luxuriousness of the hotel quarters which have been placed temporarily at their disposal, and they are giving serious thought to finding permanent, more business-like offices. Meanwhile they are pursuing their study of the agricultural marketing act which gives them their authority and some problems thus raised are already before the attorney general for consideration.

FIVE FLYING SCHOOLS OFFICIALLY APPROVED.

Washington, July 19 (AP).—Five flying schools have been officially approved by the Department of Commerce.

They are the first to receive government approval under the Bingham amendment to the Air Commerce Act providing for rating of civilian air schools by the Secretary of Commerce in an effort to reduce the number of fatalities.

Embry Riddle Flying School of Cincinnati, and the Air Tech Training School of San Diego, have been approved as transport, limited commercial and private flying schools.

Parks Air College, Inc., of East St. Louis, Ill., is rated for transport and limited commercial instruction, while the Aero Corporation of California, at Los Angeles, is given limited commercial and private rating and the D. W. Flying Service, Inc., of Leroy, N. Y., is approved as a limited commercial school.

Major Clarence M. Young, Director of Aeronautics of the Commerce Department, explains that the new law provides that the Secretary of Commerce rate the civilian schools giving flying instruction as to the adequacy of courses of instruction, suitability and airworthiness of equipment, and the competency of instruction. The examinations are being made at the request of the schools.

OPENS DRIVE AGAINST WOMEN BOOTLEGGERS.

Texarkana, Ark., July 19 (AP).—On his premise that seventy five per cent of bootlegging in Arkansas is done by women, S. M. Gurley, Deputy Prohibition Administrator for the western section of the state, has arrested 14 women and declares the drive just has begun.

"Our raiders have been given instructions to be hard boiled," the Federal officer asserts, "and before we are through hundreds of women are going to find themselves facing a Federal judge."

Gurley in his statement said half of the women engaged in bootlegging operate as agents for their husbands or male friends. He offered data to substantiate his estimate.

Wickersham Stand Interests Congressmen

Just What Did the Letter to the Governors' Conference Mean, Is the Question That Puzzles Both Wets and Drys.

Washington, July 19 (AP).—The prohibition suggestions made by Chairman Wickersham of the President's Law Enforcement Commission in the letter read to the Governors' Conferenc at New London, Conn., continued today to engage the attention of wet and dry members of congress.

In some quarters, meanwhile, it was regarded as clearly established that the president had no intention of complying with the demand of Senator Caraway, dry Democrat of Arkansas, for the chairman's resignation on the ground that he had "sacrificed his usefulness."

That conclusion was drawn from the statement by Senator Watson of Indiana, Republican leader, in defense of the Wickersham proposal that enforcement responsibility be definitely divided between the Federal government and the states, which was coupled with Wickersham's suggestion that, if tais were done, "national and state laws might be modified so as to become reasonable and enforceable."

The Republican leader, who is closely associated with President Hoover, interpreted the letter as urging "that the states do their full duty in enforcing the Eighteenth Amendment."

Chairman Wickersham's statement," he said, "was an effort to enlist the support of the states in doing their full constitutional duty. The Eighteenth Amendment left the states concurrent power with the Federal government to enforce its provision. Some of the states have not exercised that power."

Senator Borah, Republican, Idaho, dry leader and supporter of the president's enforcement program, remarked that Mr. Wickersham had "at least succeeded in making it clear that he regards the prohibition law as unenforceable." He declined to say whether he thought President Hoover had seen the letter before it was sent to Governor Roosevelt of New York, who read it to the conference.

Less reticent on that point, Senator Tydings, wet Democrat of Maryland, declared he did not think Hoover had anything to do with it, but that he regarded it as an "effort to get the reaction of the governors so that the commission might study their views."

Seized With Heart Attack

Frank Lake Taken to Kingston Hospital Where His Condition Was Reported as Improved—Formerly Lived at Mount Tremper.

Frank Lake, 52, of Durango, Colorado, was seized with an heart attack Thursday evening on Wall street and was taken to the Kingston Hospital in the city ambulance. Mr. Lake, who had come east about a month ago to visit relatives, was seized with an attack as he was about to enter the court house to telephone for a taxi. How long he was on the walk is not known but a passerby noticed him and notified Under Sheriff Doyle who took the man into the court house and later had him taken to the hospital. At the hospital he was attended bw Dr. Sanford and this morning his condition was reported as improved.

Mr. Lake formerly resided at Mt. Tremper but went west many years ago where he has since resided. A bad heart caused him to collapse on his way east from Detroit and he had been advised by a local physician to return west immediately to higher altitude on account of his heart. Mr. Lake motored from Durango with a party of friends who are stopping at Phoenicia.

More for Dollar Than 3 Years Ago

Washington, July 19 (AP).—The dollar bought more in June than it did three years ago.

The Bureau of Labor Statistics announced today the purchasing power of the June dollar was 103.7, as compared with 100, in 1926.

It purchased less meat, butter and cheese in June than it did three years ago, the bureau said, but in other foods it represented 115.9 in purchasing power as compared with 1926.

The biggest change in the purchasing power was in rubber, of which more than twice as much could be bought for the same money. In drugs the dollar could get almost half as much again.

Fuel and light materials led the price increases in June over May, with advances reported for California and Kansas-Oklahoma crude petroleum, fuel oil and gasoline.

Among farm products, price increases were reported for wheat, corn, beef steers, calves, lemons, oranges and onions. There were decreases for hogs, sheep, lambs, live poultry, hay and wool.

Tense Situation Developing in Northeastern Asia

Large Concentration of Troops by Both Russia and China—Danger From Possible Border Clashes—Japan Ready, But Does Not Expect War.

London, July 19 (AP).—The menace of war hung over northeastern Asia today with a tense situation rapidly developing which easily could involve Russia and China in a battle for supremacy in Manchuria.

European correspondents in the affected area reported large concentrations of troops, both Chinese and Russian, at frontier points on the Chinese Eastern Railway, seized last week by Manchurian authorities.

There was admitted danger of border clashes in the propinquity of these armies. Such incidents conceivably could precipitate both home governments into a deadly conflict.

Little if anything indicated that the actual peace of the two countries had been broken. The crop of rumors of border incursions and repulses lacked confirmation. There was some disinclination to believe the serious situation which has developed inevitably meant war.

The national government of China, Nanking dispatches said, viewed the position as grave, but not hopeless. President Chiang Kai Shek presided yesterday at a meeting of national leaders to discuss the situation. What took place was not revealed.

The traffic on the Chinese Eastern Raiway has come to a standstill except for the extensive troops movements. Crowds of Chinese have flocked from the border towns eastward and to the south, while Russians in Manchuria are trying to reach Siberia.

Thousands of Russians in the interior of China were reported as anxious to leave the country to escape internment in the event of war. Other Russians, "Whites", said to number 20,000, and accepting the White leader Ataman Semenov as their spokesman, were said to be anxious to wage war against the Soviet.

The Japanese government made arrangements for the protection of its nationals in the threatened area and kept a vigilant eye on every happening with the possibility of Japan becoming involved in the conflict in a military way. The Japanese generall staff was said not to expect war.

The German consular and diplomatic officials have taken or are taking over Russian interests in China and Manchuria, and Chinese interests in Russia. The foriegn legations at Peiping were represented as watching developments closely, without assuming war was inevitable.

Very little news emanated from Moscow and there was nothing in such dispatches as were received to indicate any warlike action. The usual Russian censorship on press dispatches from Moscow was understood to be in force.

Japanese dispatches said martial law had been declared in Harbin, capital of Manchuria, and the death penalty threatened for anyone spreading alarmist reports. Newspapers were strictly censored.

None of the reports reaching here showed any great eagerness on the part of either government to fight, observers pointed out, or revealed any movements which necessarily would make fighting inevitable.

RETIRES FROM NAPANOCH INSTITUTION AFTER 26 YEARS

With a record of 26 years of service at the State Institution for Mental Defectives at Napanoch, application for retirement under half salary has been granted Herbert E. Townsend, to take effect as of July 15. Mr. Townsend, known to his friends as "Bert", started his career when the late George Deyo was superintendent and has been a guard for 18 years and served as storekeeper for about seven years. The pension service term is 25 years for retirement, but Mr. Townsend availed himself of the provisions of a special bill introduced in the State legislature by Assemblyman Millard Davis, which was sponsored by Superintendent Dr. W. N. Thayer.

"ST. LOUIS ROBIN" STARTS SEVENTH DAY ALOFT

St. Louis, July 19 (AP).—Still going strong after six days in the air, the "St. Louis Robin," endurance plane piloted by Dale Jackson and Forest O'Brine, took on a new supply of fuel this morning and drove on into the seventh day aloft. The plane had been up 144 hours at 7:17 a. m.

A sister endurance plane of the Curtiss-Robertson Manufacturing Company, the "Missouri Robin," approached the end of its second day of flight this morning.

Farm and Home Bureau Picnic Here August 14

Big Annual Picnic Will Be Held at Forsyth Park With Additional Features — Riding Exhibition By State Troopers — Band Concert, Horseshoe Pitching, Games and Exhibits.

The big annual picnic of the Ulster County Farm and Home Bureau Association will be held at Forsyth Park in Kingston on Wednesday, August 14, this year. Several features have been added. It will be a big day for the county.

One feature will be a riding exhibition by Troop "C" of the State Troopers. The people of Ulster county and Kingston feel honored to have this crack troop ride for them and will show their appreciation by giving them a rousing welcome.

The horseshoe pitching contest will also be of special interest. It is open to all amateurs who have not won prize money. The winner will represent Ulster county in the state championships at Syracuse during state fair week. The winner will have all his expenses paid at Syracuse and will compete for a $50 first prize. All contestants must register by August 10, at the Farm Bureau office. All horseshoe pitching enthusiasts should get out the shoes and practice for the contest. In all probability a cup will be awarded to the winner.

The refreshment booths operated by the Home Bureau will, as usual, be one of the features. The Hon. Millard Davis will again be found at the "hot dog" booth. Sandwiches, milk, coffee, fruit, ice cream, cake and candy will also be on sale.

A number of games will be held for the children. These will be conducted by "Pop" Hinds, athletic director at the Y. M. C. A. There will be prizes awarded to the winners.

Tug-of-War Contest.

The Grange Tug-of-War contest will also be held. The cup, which is now on exhibition at the Farm Bureau office, has been won twice by the Stone Ridge Grange. The Grang that wins it three times will take permanent possession of the cup. It is rumored that Stone Ridge will have some competition this year.

A special feature for fruit growers has been added. Mr. Salisbury who conducts the Farm Bureau Spray Service Information, will have an exhibit of interest to all. He will be at the booth all day to discuss insect and disease problems with anyone who is interested.

An information booth will be provided with a telephone for the convenience of those at the picnic. A forestry exhibit will be put up by the Farm Bureau and an exhibit of pheasants and fish by the Ulster County Fish and Game Association.

The continuous band concert during the entire afternoon will also be one of the entertainment features.

From all indications it will be a big day for all. It will be an excellent opportunity to meet friends from all parts of the county, and renew acquaintances.

Officials of New Steamboat Line Here Thursday

Inspected Property of Hudson River Steamboat Company—Two of Steamers to be Oil Burners—Plan Improvements to Service.

Colonel Edward C. Carrington, chairman of the board of directors of the Hudson River Steamboat Company and president of the Hudson River Night Line; George C. Warner, a director of the Hudson River Steamboat Company and the Hudson River Night Line, and C. K. Crosby, vice-president and general manager of the Hudson River Steamboat Company and general manager of the Hudson River Night Line, were in Kingston on Thursday afternoon inspecting the property of the Hudson River Steamboat Company, the successors to the Central Hudson Steamboat Company.

The Hudson River Steamboat Company is planning a number of improvements to its service. The company is operating four steamers, the Poughkeepsie, the Odell, the Newburgh and the Raamsdell.

At the present time the steamer Poughkeepsie is in dry dock at Weehawken where she is being reconditioned and having oil burners installed. The Benjamin B. Odell is now an oil burner and has been entirely reconditioned and painted, and looks like a new boat.

The Newburgh and the Ramsdell are still coal burners, but it is likely that sometime in the future they will also be made into oil burners.

All four steamers were never in better shape than they are at the present time. The new steamboat company is catering not only to passenger service but also freight service.

From Kingston the company officials motored to Poughkeepsie to inspect the property there and then intended to proceed on to Newburgh.

Flames Destroy Old Angora

More Than One Thousand Shops and Buildings Wiped Out By Fire Lasting Eight Hours.

Constantinople, July 19 (AP).—A large part of the city of Angora was ravaged by fire today. Flames broke out at 2 a. m. and, fanned by a strong wind, spread rapidly.

Six charred bodies were discovered in the ruined buildings when the fire was brought under control after burning eight hours.

The total number of casualties had not been listed. It was estimated that more than 1,000 shops and houses were destroyed. The financial loss will be considerable.

Ghazi Mustapha Kemal, president of the republic, arrived at the scene of the fire at 3 a. m. and personally directed the firemen's fight against the flames.

The greater part of the old and picturesque town of Angora was destroyed, as well as the market. The flames were checked just before they reached the new city.

Fire Board Not Ready to Appoint

Although the local civil service commission will hold an examination on July 29 and 30, to make up an eligible list from which men may be selected for the paid fire department, no appointments will be made at the present time by the board of fire commissioners.

Some time ago Fire Chief Murphy asked the board to appoint six men to the paid force, but no provision was made in the budget of the fire board to employ any additional men. The board, however, has asked the civil service board for an eligible list so that when it was decided to make appointments to force a list of eligible men would be in the hands of the fire board.

It is not expected that any men will be appointed to the paid fire department until later in the year.

MRS. KILKENNY INJURED IN AUTO ACCIDENT THURSDAY.

Mrs. Patrick Kilkenny of New York city was cut and bruised about the leg on Thursday afternoon when the auto she was riding in was in collision with a car driven by Albert Flanagan of 267 Main street, this city, at Fonhall avenue and Hasbrouck avenue. Mr. Kilkenny escaped injury as well as several of their children who were riding in the Kilkenny car.

KILLED WOMAN BECAUSE OF "EVIL INFLUENCE".

Kalamazoo, Mich., July 19 (AP).—Eugene Burgess, his wife and their son and daughter were in jail here today while officers investigated what they said had all the appearances of a "hex" slaying. The victim was Mrs. Etta L. Fairchilds, 75, occupant of a Home for the Aged here, whose mutilated body was found in a cistern shortly before midnight last night.

Burgess, officers said, confessed he had killed Mrs. Fairchilds with a lead pipe and a hammer because she "had cast an evil mental influence" over his family and because she "could kill people through her mental process".

He charged Mrs. Fairchilds's influence had brought about the death of his mother two years ago and that of her husband some 15 years ago.

Burgess's wife also sought to take responsibility for the slaying, saying she had killed Mrs. Fairchilds. Like her husband she said the aged woman "had an evil mental influence or spell" over the entire Burgess family.

HELD UP TRUCK AND GOT $42,583

New Orleans, July 19 (AP).—Seven bandits today held up the armored truck of the Hibernia Bank and Trust Company, threw the armed guards off, and drove away with the truck.

The bank reported the truck carried $42,583. An hour after the holdup the police had been unable to find any trace of the stolen car. It was found at Dryades and Julia street. A bandit took the wheel while companions fled in a motor car after holding the guards at bay with revolvers.

Appointed Trade Commissioner.

Washington, July 19 (AP).—Appointment of Edward R. Stowell, of Philadelphia, as United States trade commissioner to London, was announced today by the department of commerce. He has been engaged in engineering work in Europe, North Africa, and Asia Minor for 16 years.

ASHOKAN.

Ashokan, July 18.—Mrs. A. Morris is entertaining her brother and friend from New Jersey.

Mr. and Mrs. Alonzo Winne and daughter spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Peter Winne of Allaben.

Mrs. Person is entertaining out of town company.

The Ladies' Aid is preparing for the fair, which will be held August 8, starting at 2 p. m. Supper will be served.

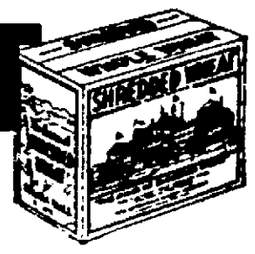

Everybody will be glad when the road is completed.

Miss Sadie Winne is spending a few days with her cousins in Kingston.

Many boarding places are filled with city boarders.

Dr. Stern Will Resume Practice

To Open His Modern Offices in New Rondout National Bank Building on Monday—Has Been in Active Practice for Past Forty Years.

Dr. A. A. Stern, who for the past two years has not been able to practice owing to illness, on Monday will resume his practice of medicine in his modern offices in the new Rondout National Bank building on East Strand, where he has a suite of three rooms.

For forty years Dr. Stern has been active in the practice of his profession with his office located in the old building on East Strand which was demolished to make room for the new bank building, which is rapidly nearing completion.

Dr. Stern's new offices are fully equipped with modern appliances in the use of his profession, and are a decided improvement over his old offices where for nearly half a century he held office hours. In his new office he will have morning hours from 9 to 11 o'clock with afternoon hours from 1 to 2 o'clock. He will have no night hours.

Dr. Stern's new offices are located upstairs over the store that will be occupied by Benjamin W. Johnston as a drug store as soon as it is ready for occupancy.

French Landlords Busy and Happy

Paris, July 19 (AP).—The landlords of France are having a busy and happy time of it this summer raising the rent. It is the first time they have been allowed to do in several years. A new rent law became effective July 1, giving owners the right to ask more money from occupants of offices and apartments.

More than any other class in France, the landlords suffered from the slump of the franc to one-fifth its pre-war value. Not only was the landlord not allowed to profiteer from the housing shortage after the war, but he wasn't even permitted to raise the rent enough to keep up with the fall of the currency.

Until the recent law was enacted—and put in effect in 48 hours—he was forbidden to ask more than double the 1914 rent for his property. That meant that, at best, he was getting a return of sixty per cent less on his holdings than he received before the war.

For instance, a flat renting for 5,000 francs a year in 1914 could not be leased for more than 10,000 francs. But 10,000 francs today are worth only $400 whereas 5,000 francs in 1914 were valued at $1,000.

Now under the new law the landlord can get 150 per cent above the 1914 figure. He is still far from catching up with the fall of the franc, but he is going to be allowed to raise the rent 15 per cent each year during the years from 1931 to 1938.

If the landlord can get rid of his tenant and sign a new one to a nine-year lease, then he can raise the rent immediately 250 per cent compared with its pre-war figure in francs.

BLOOMINGTON.

Bloomington, July 18.—Mr. and Mrs. A. D. Relyea and son, Gordon, spent Sunday afternoon and evening with Mr. and Mrs. J. Bell and family of Whiteport.

Dave Winter and son, William, with other friends, motored to Virginia on Wednesday and expect to spend a few days there on a vacation.

I. H. M. Class will hold their picnic on Saturday afternoon. The bus leaves the church at two o'clock. Any members who wish to go will meet there and are invited.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Niebergall and two daughters of New York city came on Monday to spend a week with his sister and husband, Mr. and Mrs. Neal Hotaling, and family.

Miss Bessie Wolf of Brooklyn spent the past two weeks with Mr. and Mrs. A. Jacquin.

Mrs. J. S. Febregas of Staten Island and Mrs. Fred Ahlers of Brooklyn spent several days the past week with their sister, Mrs. John Merrell.

Mr. Merrell's sister, Mrs. John Parker, also his niece and husband, Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Larsen, all of Staten Island, spent the past week with the Merrells. They all spent Tuesday at Big Indian visiting Mr. Larsen's sister. Miss Kittie Parker, and fiancee, another niece of Mr. Merrell's, also visited them on Saturday.

Miss Rita Lathrop of New Dorp, Staten Island, is spending her vacation with Mr. and Mrs. John Merrell.

Mrs. Blaney, who some months ago bought Mrs. Krom's cottage, is spending a few weeks here.

Mr. and Mrs. Wolf of Brooklyn spent the week end with Mr. and Mrs. A. Jacquin.

A. Jacquin went back to business on Monday after spending a week's vacation visiting places around home.

Miss Viret's brother's house is rented for the season to people from Staten Island.

Mr. and Mrs. Haverston and son, Bobby, of Brooklyn, are spending the summer in Mrs. Anderson's cottage.

SATURN'S RINGS ON VIEW.

During the next few weeks the owners of small telescopes will have opportunity to view the marvelous rings of the planet Saturn. Every fourteen years Saturn turns the edges of its rings toward the earth, the display then being virtually invisible, but during the seven years between these disappearances the rings show their maximum spread. The last such maximum was in 1928 and the rings are still fully on view. The planet is now in the constellation of the Scorpion and may be seen not far above the southern horizon just after dusk. The bright red star Antares is the only other brilliant object in the immediate neighborhood, Saturn being readily distinguished by its yellow color. Those remarkable celestial objects, the rings of Saturn, were discovered by Huygens in 1655.

Ever since that date the rings have received a vast deal of astronomical attention. "Saturn," we read, "is actually less than three-fourths as dense as water. If one could find an ocean large enough the whole planet would float. What we see of the planetary ball is unquestionably no more than the surface of a deep and complicated atmosphere, but by no means an atmosphere of hot steam. The surface of that misty veil is certainly not warmer than 200 degrees below zero. Whatever the vapors of the frigid veil may be, they are not steam or watery mist. Most remarkable of the features of this veiled ball is its yellow streak. Any one can notice that Saturn is yellow, as compared with the ruddy tinge of Mars; the brilliant silver of Venus or the clear blue-white of Jupiter. The chief cause is a broad band of yellow around the planet's middle, like a Spanish sash. There is a green-tinged area around the pole. Different gases must be circulating, according to some unknown set of physical laws, in different parts of the planet's outermost atmosphere."

THE BRITISH DEMOCRACY.

It is notable that in the King's (or Premier Ramsay MacDonald's) "speech from the throne" the British system of government, though usually classified in the textbooks as a constitutional monarchy, was referred to as a "constitutional democracy." Since the election of the Labor government Premier MacDonald has been quoted as saying that he did not favor a republic for Great Britain, the monarchy serving his purpose as long as it does not obstruct the aims of democracy; yet he emphasized the fact that the British government is actually democratic in these times by causing the King to describe the country as a constitutional democracy.

Obviously it deserved no such description when Thomas Jefferson, the original American Democrat, wrote the Declaration of Independence 153 years ago, absolving the American Colonies "from all allegiance to the British Crown." From that revolutionized "Crown" royal autocracy has long since completely faded out, nothing remaining but the rule of the people. Indeed, students of the subject declare that the British system of government is now really more democratic than the American (though this is not yet true of the British social system), the will of the people being more easily and swiftly registered by changes in administration than in the United States. The "Crown" is no longer anything but a symbol of the nation's sovereignty and dignity, the controlling power residing in the ballot-box and the real scepter wielded by universal suffrage.

"Divinity doth hedge a king," even yet. It looked so, anyway, for a little while at Geneva, when King Fuad of Egypt dropped into the little Swiss city on a business errand. The secretariat of the League of Nations was flustered. The secretaries and undersecretaries are not accustomed to welcoming royalty, and lacked stage properties. Of course they had to have a throne. So some official scurried around, searched the town and finally brought forth a red-upholstered chair of tarnished magnificence from some second-hand store. The business of the League was entirely interrupted during the visit. Everybody acted solemn and important. Everything said was said with tremendous dignity, though naturally nothing was said of any importance. A communique was issued to the press graciously "permitting" its unworthy representatives to attend the ceremonial welcome to his dusky majesty, providing they wore dark clothes. In an age of democracy, royalty is no joke, not even when it consists of a little two-by-four king set up in a subject land by British statesmen who owe their own power to popular will.

Present tendencies foreshadow a time when American factories will not stop at the present practice of turning down men over 40 but will also reject many young and capable applicants. In 1927, for example, the factories of this country produced 16 per cent more goods than in 1916, with 11 per cent fewer workers.

The late Ambassador Herrick, though formerly supposed to be a millionaire several times over, left an estate valued at only $750,000. It is believed that in the maintenance of the American embassy in Paris during and since the war he drew heavily on his own private means "in characteristic acts of helpfulness."

The Ohio State Journal (Rep.) solemnly warns "our regular murderers" of their mistake "in not taking out licenses as prohibition agents first."

THAT BODY OF YOURS

AS OLD AS YOUR LEGS.

I have spoken before about the examination of boxers before a bout and how we are always anxious to know how much road work they have been doing.

If they are able to prove to our satisfaction that they have been jogging along the road for three to six miles daily, then we know they should be in good physical condition.

We are thinking mostly of the heart and lungs which must be in good condition to pump and purify the tremendous amount of blood that goes down to the legs.

Jack Dempsey could be sure of another couple of million dollars if his legs were as good as they were some years ago. While I have not seen him since his Tunney fights, I am told that he has lost his old time panther like spring.

Babe Ruth's chances of getting $100,000 per year after this year's contract expires depends upon his legs. If they hold his massive weight perfectly, and allow him to "set" himself to meet the ball squarely, then he can collect without a murmur from the club owners.

The legs sustain the whole weight of the body and the knees have almost the whole weight bearing against the inner ligament. It often gives.

Then the ankles get strained and sprained so often that a little twist finally puts the athlete out of the game.

Also the muscles get little tears in the fibers and the natural elastic muscle tissue gets replaced with a hard non elastic tissue.

Still further, if the athlete gets heavy and stands around all winter, the veins begin to swell, the walls thicken, and varicose veins result.

It is the movement of the muscles of the legs in walking or other exercise, that keeps the blood moving onward. The moving muscles actually help to pump blood upwards.

The whole idea then is not to let the body get too heavy for the legs to carry, but most important is to walk or take light exercise all the time and the legs will remain strong and supple.

Lightning and Minerals

The bureau of mines says that because lightning has struck often in the same place is no indication that there are mineral deposits there. There is a great difference in the conductivity in different locations. For instance, oak trees are considered good conductors of electricity and maple trees are considered poor conductors of electricity.

Cotton Leads All

Cotton ranks first in the list of commodities exported from the United States, and comprises about 17 per cent of the total exports.

For the Love of a Lady

by Jeffery Farnol

SYNOPSIS: Helen D'Arcy is [illegible] by Sir Richard's [illegible] he believes that she [illegible] and [illegible] Richard's [illegible] Tuesday, Helen strikes him in the face with her whip, but riding home with Gregory, she confesses her continued deep concern for Richard's safety. Meanwhile, Richard realizes that he has [illegible] her and [illegible] Tuesday [illegible] he hides in a hedge and overhears Helen's tender words of her regard for him. He vows that he will woo her speedily. Crossing to the inn, Richard spies a [illegible] shadow—and follows it.

Chapter 22

A MESSAGE IN THE ARBOUR

THE Duchess sat up in bed, very wide awake despite the late hour.

"And is it see him ye did, me sweet soul?" she demanded.

"Ah, dearly beloved," sighed Helen, frowning at the candle-flame. "I saw the odious wretch!" Helen turned away with gesture so superbly disdainful that the Duchess snorted.

"Tush, girl! Have done wi' your high tragedy airs, miss! Ye've seen him and he's disappointed you—tell me how, tell me why, and tell me quick!"

My lady's magnificent disdain wilted and she sank upon the great bed and hid her face.

Stooping suddenly, Richard swept Helen into his arms—carried her off.

"Oh, Aunt," she whispered, "he thinks me a ... murderess ... he thinks 'twas I killed his cousin Julian."

"Ay course he does, ye sweet simpleton! Ha, don't ye see? Here's the true reason for his flight. He fathers the crime, runs the hazard o' shameful death—for thee, Helen, all for thee! This Guyfford o' Weare is noble gentleman, ah—and what's more, a very man!"

"Ah, belovedest, if this indeed be so——"

"Pest!" cried the Duchess, "if me no ifs; and proud ye should be o' such brave devotion, humble and thankful for the love of such a man."

"Humble? Oh, my dear, I—struck him—with my whip!"

"Ah!" sighed the Duchess. "So—a man perils his life for ye, and ye show your gratitude with a whip!"

Then the Duchess abruptly changed the subject.

"Your maid Betty's a sly minx and will bear watching — So I watched her! And, what's more, your devoted, faithful creature can read and write!"

"Why, yes, aunt, but——"

"And me dear, she reads your letters and my letters, and writes to somebody she names 'dear T——'"

"Aunt!" gasped Helen.

"There's a letter writ to 'dear T', hidden in the arbour at this moment."

"Aunt, you never bothered to read the thing?"

"Every word. I'm wondering who 'dear T' may chance to be...Then Viscount Brocklehurst called this morning and mighty curious and insistent to know whither you had ridden and with whom."

"'Is she with Despard?' says he, and shure the man was all of a shiver. 'Maybe,' says I, and the man frowns and bites his lips. Afterwards, in shady corner—they didn't see me—your faithful devoted Betty told him something concerning yourself. I caught whisper also of Richard Guyfford's name."

Once again my lady gasped, but this time in growing terror:

"Aunt...oh, aunt—the perfidious wretch!"

"Whereupon, your lord vowed 'twas time to act."

"To act how, aunt, how? What doth it all mean?"

"That mischief's afoot. But be' the saints, we'll outwit 'em, thou and I. And now enough—kiss me good-night."

So they clasped and kissed each other and Helen, taking lighted candle, went to her room, but paused in her disrobing to draw the curtains, and to gaze down into the garden, a place of mystery. Now as she stood thus, awed by the deep and brooding stillness, her heart made a sudden leap and, instinctively drawing the curtains about her loveliness, she stood breathless and wide of eye, for amid these black shadows something had moved.

* * * * *

A tall figure it was, Sir Richard noticed, as he followed whither it led. So came they to the Moat House garden and there to a rustic arbour wherein the figure vanished, soon to reappear and, crouching in the moonlight, unfolded a slip of paper to scan it with eager eyes; then Sir Richard recognized the reader and stepped behind a tree as the man thrust paper into pocket and hastened away, swift and silent as he had come.

For some while Sir Richard leaned there, then, moved by sudden thought, he stepped into the arbour and peered about. Passing his hands to and fro across the timbering until at last his care and patience were rewarded, something rustled faintly, and from behind one of the uprights, he drew a folded paper, and spreading this to the moon, read these words very plainly written:

"Dear B.—Do as I bid thee and our fortune is made. My L. is pleased with thee and I have lace for thee French point mighty fine. Should you hear aught of his whereabouts, haste to tell me, for naught is well till he be took. So be watchful to see and hear all you may and act when I give word. My L. is for the haunted mill and 'tis likely spot being so desolate. Tomorrow is the inquest, so no more until we meet, same hour and place. I've much to tell.

"Thy ever-dear T."

Sir Richard was still reading when a vague sound startled him and, glancing round, he espied a cloaked and hooded figure speeding to him across the wide lawn.

"Helen!" said he, in glad surprise.

Breathless she was with haste and now stood before him, panting a little, her face a pale sweet oval beneath drawn hood.

"What do you here, sir?"

"Trespass, ma'm, beyond a doubt."

"And run deadly peril to come for your—love-note!" And she pointed disdainfully at the open letter.

"Sir," said she, chin aloft, contempt and disdain in every line of her, "'twas writ by my maid!"

"Alack, madam!" he sighed.

"Can it be that you—you are her ...'dear T'?"

"Let us suppose it, ma'm, and what then?"

"There is no more to be said, sir."

"Nay, faith, ma'm, there is so much that we are like to talk until dawn."

"So will I bid you good-night, sir!" But, even as she turned to be gone, he had her by the cloak.

"A good-night indeed," said he. "'Tis a balmy air and kindly warm; this night we come to an understanding."

"Loose me or I scream!"

"Attempt it, ma'm, and I kiss you breathless."

"So you well deign me an explanation at last, sir?" she demanded. "What brought you here tonight?"

"Pure villainy," he answered lightly; "it crept before me all the way, it brought this letter, a missive mysterious addressed 'Dear B' and subscribed 'dear T.'"

"Oh!" said my lady. "'Twill be for Betty, my wicked maid."

"And T," nodded Sir Richard, "is for Thomas, Tom for short. Tom Pitt, my Helen; you saw him the night these eyes first looked on thee——"

"Yes," she answered, coming nearer yet. "Now pray show me this letter."

"Yonder, 'neath the old cherry-tree—come!" and, stooping suddenly, he swept her up in his arms before she might prevent.

LAKE KATRINE.

Lake Katrine, July 19.—The members of the Ulster Park Grange will present a miscellaneous program under the auspices of the July committee of Lake Katrine Grange, Mrs. Hugh Furguson, chairman, at the Grange Hall on the evening of July 26, at 8:30 o'clock. The program will consist of four short plays interspersed with vocal and instrumental music. The plays are entitled, "Mother Goose Up-to-Date," "Jerry, or a Family Resemblance," "How the Story Grew," and "That Borrowing Barlow." Tickets are on sale. The chairman of the August committee, Mrs. Harry Davis, assisted by the chairmen of all committees of the year, will hold a special meeting at the hall on Monday evening, July 22, to arrange for the bazaar to be held in August. The meeting is for all members of the committees and anyone not assigned who is willing to help.

New York—George F. Baker has made $11,000,000 in one day—on paper. He is chairman of the Board of the First National Bank and the stock soared more than $500 a share to $7,800 bid and $8,000 asked. He holds 22,000 shares.

Dunham, England—King Alfonso of Spain is a worker. He so told the Mayor of Durham when he visited a coal mine. "I must do my work like any other man would do his job," he said. The king wore overalls and a leather cap with lamp into the mine

Boston—Fiske Warren, wealthy single tax advocate, is traveling abroad in the steerage. It is his 50th trans-Atlantic voyage. He explained he preferred the simple life of third class and besides it enabled him to save money for his single tax colonies.

London—Jack Mills, Laborite M. P., is circulating a petition for the abolition of tips in the House of Commons restaurant. Waiters are paid $8 a week and provide their own uniforms. But there is a deficit and the committee in charge is adverse to making salaries large enough without tips.

Washington—Mrs. Calvin Coolidge is to christen the cruiser Northhampton, named for her home city. It will be launched September 7 at Quincy, Mass.

Moscoe—The Jewish Soviet Socialist Republic has been created. Several thousand farmers and families have been sent to colonize an area about as large as Texas in the Biro Badjan District, on the Amur River in Siberia, near Manchuria.

Newark, N. J.—John Dreier, wealthy retired milkman, who owns 20 acres, formerly a cow pasture, in the midst of valuable residential property, has plastered it with signs reading: "For sale to colored people only; long terms; restrictions." Streets were cut through his land recently over his objections. His explanation of the sign is: "They froze me out. They don't want me, so let them have colored people for neighbors."

New York—In two weeks a work of art 225 feet long and ten feet high has been created on the walls of a room in the Wall street district. "A pageant of the History of Commerce by the Sea" shows 26 types of ships. Twelve union painters made it from designs projected from the artist's sketches. The painting is in the new building of Lee, Higginson and Company.

Arnold Killed In Plane Crash

Des Moines, Iowa, July 19 (AP).—Ross Arnold, pilot of the endurance monoplane Greater Des Moines, was killed late yesterday when the plane crashed nine miles southeast of here. The crash followed an attempt at a test refueling preparatory to starting an endurance flight today. Charles Gatschet, co-pilot, was thrown from the plane but landed safely with a parachute.

The plane was flying directly below its refueling ship, the Miss Sioux City, piloted by Arnold's brother, Amon, and Jimmy Barwick. It suddenly went into a dive, completely out of control.

The plane fell from a height of 3,000 feet, plunged into a group of trees, and dropped into a wooded ravine.

31 Drowned In Black Sea

Bucharest, Rumania, July 19 (AP)—Thirty-one persons were drowned early yesterday in disaster to the Russian ship Volga which struck a floating mine in the Black Sea, ships arriving at Black Sea ports reported.

The Volga sent out an S. O. S. during the night, later stating that 31 persons—14 passengers and 17 of the crew—already had been drowned. The Volga sailed Tuesday from the Russian port of Novorossisk with passengers and merchandise.

TILDEN WINS OPENING MATCH FROM MOLDENHAUER.

Berlin, July 19 (AP).—Bill Tilden smashed his way to victory over Hans Moldenhauer of Germany in three straight sets today to give the United States the opening match in the Interzone Davis Cup tennis final against the Germans.

Tilden downed his opponent by 6-2, 6-4, 6-4.

Big Bill carried too many guns for Moldenhauer. The German, eight years his junior, carried more speed of foot than Tilden but the wizardry of the American racquet, dealing out a disconcerting mixture of cannonballs, stinging drives, volleys and drop shots, had him guessing all the way.

Friendship's Elements

There are two elements that go to the composition of friendship, each so sovereign that I can detect no superiority in either, no reason why either should be first named. One is truth. The other is tenderness.—Emerson.

Loretta Young

Charming Loretta Young has risen steadily in the "movie" world. Her work in "Scarlet Seas" and in the all-star production, "The Squall," brought so much favorable commendation that she was chosen for the principal female role in "Fast Life." This is one of her latest pictures.

For Meditation

By LEONARD A. BARRETT

AVOIDABLE TRAGEDIES

ONE of the greatest tragedies known in the history of hospitals occurred recently in Cleveland, Ohio, when in the Cleveland clinic 125 persons lost their lives and many more suffered from the effects of poisoned gas and fire. The cause for the disaster seems to have been the failure to properly house films used in the X-ray department. Those who investigated the details of this calamitous event claim that the fumes which came from burning films were like the deadly gases used in the late war. Regardless of the final results of the investigating committee in fixing the responsibility for the disaster the fact remains that had proper precautionary methods been used the accident would never have occurred.

Some years past many lives were lost in Chicago when fire swept from the stage over a capacity audience in one of the largest theaters. After the cause of the tragedy was determined and the blame fixed it was finally decreed that the public should no longer be subjected to so dangerous a situation again; so it was decided that asbestos curtains should hang in front of the stage in every theater.

The pilot of an airship advised the authorities to whom he was responsible that it would be unsafe to attempt the scheduled flight at the time agreed upon; that weather conditions made it very dangerous. He received a curt reply in the nature of a command "to obey orders" with the result that he lost his life in the wreck of the airship. After that the authorities reversed their custom by leaving the date and time of flights to the discretion of those who knew more about the hazards of flying than inexperienced and untrained persons.

The question naturally occurs, why must society be called upon to pay so dear a cost for its own protection? Almost every forward movement in the development of preventive measures owes its inception to intense suffering and in many cases, death. Undoubtedly the Cleveland tragedy will cause a rigid inspection of X-ray rooms in all hospitals and legal enactment by which that dangerous but necessary department will be made safe. If the sacredness of human life were placed first and obligation to society received chief consideration human life would not be unnecessarily subjected to the peril of ignorance, pride and materialistic selfishness.

Art Exhibit At Woodstock

(By F. [illegible])

The Woodstock [illegible] has opened its doors to show a [illegible] paintings, [illegible] and [illegible] interest [illegible]

[illegible] you to look at.

Of course the Art Association doesn't say this, but it is true, nevertheless. I have often wondered what would be the effect on many of us if suddenly Woodstock, and Kingston, were to be deprived of all exhibits of art in the homes and public places. At Woodstock there are so many artists working, so many beginners who tell their friends that the other artist's work is part of the great scheme that the average layman think he should be one to utter adverse criticism. As a matter of fact, with all these artists, American life would be much less bearable. The time has come when an evenly distributed wealth make us turn toward cultural things for sustenance. Even the bankers are becoming disillusioned; radio offer better programs; architecture in America is leaning toward artistic simplicity; books must be genuine or they die sudden deaths. Most of us have our walls decorated with cheap, tawdry, hideous things to sear our eyes and souls with ugliness. Why not encourage the artists by buying some of their work? Or better still, and compromising to your own selfishness, why not make yourself happy by putting a little more beauty about your home than you now have?

Oil Paintings.

To get down to a review of the exhibit which has prompted this article, there are many oil paintings (small) that will please: "Ferry Slip," by Florence Cranmer is a local subject with lots of color; "Dancers," by F. Wilson has move-

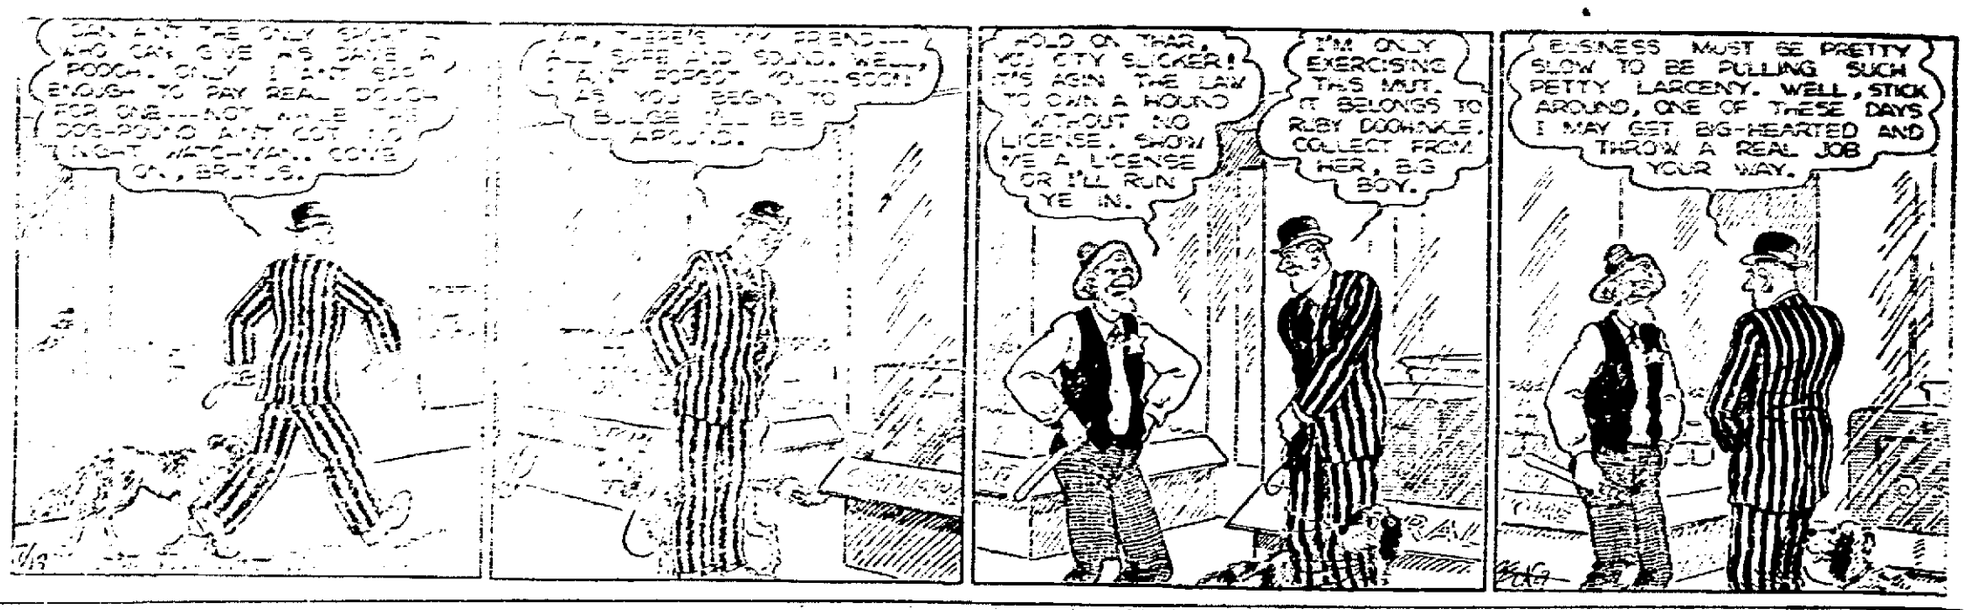

[illegible] and serious accomplishment; sculpture is represented by Paul Fiene, who has done a plaster head of Nan Mason, also a "Miss 1929," marching defiantly ahead with a stride quite in tune with the whole exhibition of which we write. Ruskin Williams has carved a birch figure with skill. There is also a jewelry of chalcedony by Edith Temple.

The complete exhibition offers a challenge to the public, as well as an opportunity to view something not over the average layman's head. This show remains hung all of July, and no one should visit Woodstock without seeing it.

Hymn Written for Children

The hymn "Now the Day Is Over" first appeared in 1861 in "Hymns Ancient and Modern." It was written by Rev. Sabine Baring-Gould for the children of the Sunday school at St. John's, Horbury Bridge, Yorkshire, England, and was then known as "The Evening Hymn for Missions." Rev. Sabine Baring-Gould was born in 1834 and died in 1924.

Walker Will Be a Candidate

New York, July 19 (AP)—Mayor James J. Walker formally announced Thursday that he would be a candidate for re-election in the city election this fall.

He made the announcement in the presence of nearly 600 members of an independent citizens' committee, headed by August Heckscher, millionaire philanthropist, who called on him to tell him he was their choice. The ceremonies were broadcast.

Former Governor Alfred E. Smith, listed as one of the members of the citizens' committee, was not present, having gone away for the week end. In addition to Mr. Heckscher and his committee, however, several important men in the Tammany organization witnessed the ceremonies.

A Call of Precaution to Mothers and Fathers Who Have Their Kiddies' Best Interests at Heart

Why Let Them Bathe in Streams and Creeks of uncertain Purity?

SCHOENTAG'S New Mammoth Pool

GUARANTEES THEIR SAFETY

With its pure, crystal-clear, drinking water which pours from driven wells. Now they can bathe and frolic with perfect impunity—safe in the certain knowledge that this pool is under strict supervision and abides by the State Board of Health laws on sanitation—surely the best is none too good for our youngsters!

So, Parents—GUARD YOUR KIDDIES—Let Them Join The "Gang" at

SCHOENTAG'S Massive Pool

It will repay you to see how happy and sturdy they are—spanked by the waves—and kissed by the sun—An ideal vacation for them. And a vacation for you too to know they are enjoying themselves so hilariously yet in such ab-so-lute safety.

So bring them along—we'll take the best of care of them for we like youngsters no end, we do—and—(happy thought!) why not join them in the fun? Teach 'em all you know of swimming, diving and floating—you'll be surprised the kick you'll get out of it—and the close bond it will be with home in later years when they are out in the world "on their own."

So, parents—a word to the wise—be kids with your kiddies and—frolic at

SCHOENTAG'S MAMMOTH POOL!!

Heavy Damage To Lakefront

Chicago, July 19 (AP).—A furious nor'easter lashed Lake Michigan yesterday and early today, causing thousands of dollars loss in lakefront damage. Fifteen-foot waves battered apartment buildings, tore craft from moorings, and swept over streets, beaches and parks.

Mariners described the storm as the worst in 20 years. Excursion steamers and freighters fought their way with difficulty through the tumbling waters. Most of them docked an hour or more late.

The storm started shortly after noon when a strong northeast wind swept the lake. An hour later many lakefront streets were awash and coast guard crews were kept busy answering distress signals. The sun shone brightly throughout the day.

Motorists in South Shore Drive were rerouted when seas dashed over the seawall at 67th street, inundating the thoroughfares and part of Jackson Park.

On the north side, Sheridan Road was blocked through Lincoln Park and Evanston. Police feared the street was in imminent danger of being washed away opposite Calvary Cemetery in Evanston.

Two North Side apartment buildings were seriously threatened. Waves shattered windows in the lower floors of one, while water stood two feet deep in the entrance of the other.

The Evanston coast guard station was threatened with destruction and guardsmen worked through the night to protect it with sandbags.

Find Throws New Light on Geology of Asia

Thirty dinosaurs, complete, were found in Mongolia's waste places, by Dr. Sven Hedin, the famous explorer.

He declares that owing to the geological stratum in which the dinosaurs were found, the discovery fills a gap of millions of years in the knowledge of geological development in Asia. Included in the find were three infant dinosaurs fresh from the egg, about 23½ inches long, all lying nestled close to their mother, and searching a higher stratum the expedition has found a dinosaur egg.

This is the first time dinosaurs from the Jurassic period have been discovered in Asia. The discovery is highly significant, as it affords knowledge of geologic development in Asia covering millions of years, about which we have hitherto been ignorant. Doctor Hedin's expedition included 60 Europeans, mostly Swedish, German, or Dutch. To reach the Urumchi headquarters the expedition traversed the Gobi desert with 300 camels.

Lover's Good Qualities Had Been Well Tested

The maid had been hinting that she did not think much of service and this, in conjunction with the nightly appearance of a rather sheepish-looking young man, caused her mistress some apprehension.

"Martha, is it possible you are thinking of getting married?" said her mistress.

"Yes, ma'am," admitted Martha.

"Not to that young fellow who has been calling on you lately?"

"Yes, ma'am, he's the one."

"But you've only known him a few days."

"Three weeks come Thursday," corrected Martha.

"Do you think that is long enough to know a man before taking such an important step?"

"Well," answered Martha, "it isn't as if he was some new fellow. He's well recommended. A girl I know was engaged to him for quite a long time."—London Tit-Bits.

Literary Gems in Heap

When the late Sir Edmund Gosse, whose valuable collection of English plays of the Restoration period was so well known among scholars, once was searching the shelves of a Soho bookshop he found a stack of old plays, of which the bookseller was anxious to get rid.

"There were," said Gosse, "treasures lying in that ignominious heap, and if I had only had in my pocket what a single one of those plays would fetch today, I might have got off laden with spoil. There were things lying there which, in all the 50 years since, I have never cast my eyes on again. I emptied my poor purse, however, to its utmost penny."—Detroit News.

SUPREME COURT, ULSTER COUNTY.—In the Matter of the Application of FRANCES ELLSWORTH for an order dissolving her marriage with SEYMOUR ELLSWORTH, pursuant to Section 7-A of the Domestic Relations Law.

To SEYMOUR ELLSWORTH, above named:

WHEREAS, Frances Ellsworth has presented a petition to the above Court showing that her husband, Seymour Ellsworth, has absented himself for five successive years last past, without being known to her to be living during that time; that she believes him to be dead; that a diligent search has been made to discover evidence showing him to be living, and no such evidence has been found, and asking that her said marriage be dissolved; now pursuant to an order duly made and entered in the above-entitled proceeding, dated the 4th day of June, 1929, a hearing will be had upon such petition at a Special Term of the Supreme Court of the State of New York to be held at the County Court House in the City of Kingston, County of Ulster and State of New York, on the Seventh day of September, 1929, at 10 o'clock in the forenoon of that day, or as soon thereafter as counsel can be heard.

Dated, June 4, 1929

FRANCES ELLSWORTH,
Petitioner.

The ZERO hour has struck for Knocking Motors .. TIDE WATER ANNOUNCES

TYDOL ETHYL

ZERO KNOCK RATING GASOLINE

You can thank the amazing success of Hi-test TYDOL for Tide Water's latest gasoline achievement—the new TYDOL ETHYL with a zero knock rating.

Announced last November, as a high-test, anti-knock, super-power gasoline at no extra cost, Hi-test TYDOL literally took motordom by storm.

New TYDOL pumps sprang up like mushrooms. Increased TYDOL demand taxed to the utmost capacity Tide Water's huge refinery facilities. Demonstrating that car owners are quick to recognize a definite improvement in motor fuels.

Now Tide Water engineers have succeeded in combining the proven qualities of Hi-test TYDOL with ETHYL, the undisputed leader of anti-knock compounds . . . resulting in another and still greater super-fuel. A de luxe companion fuel to Hi-test TYDOL, with a certified knock rating of zero.

Why pay a 3c premium for motor fuels that show a knock rating of 5, 8 and 9. (See table at right.) The Midgley (Bouncing Pin) Indicator, the official gauge for measuring anti-knock quality, shows that the new TYDOL ETHYL has an unvarying and a positive knock rating of zero. Meaning K. O. and good-bye to all knocks in knocking motors.

Bring on your high-speed, high-compression and carbonized motors. Bring on your long, hot stretches of roadway, broiling under the summer sun. Bring on the hills, the mud, the sand.

The new TYDOL ETHYL will breeze you through with the powerful thrust of a flying comet . . . without a knock in a whole day's journey.

TYDOL ETHYL is a fuel for the car owner who demands the very best . . . and will take no substitutes. And why should he? For this zero knock rating gasoline costs only 3c a gallon more than ordinary gasolines; and often less than the cost of premium gasoline with high knock ratings.

Make a 10 gallon test

The next time you need gasoline drive up to a TYDOL ETHYL pump and try out ten gallons of this modern fuel. It will only cost you 30c more than 10 gallons of ordinary gas.

No more . . . perhaps less . . . than you have been paying for other premium gasolines.

But in any event, 30c is a small amount to gamble to prove to yourself just what a zero knock rating gasoline will do in your own car. Tide Water Oil Sales Corporation, 11 Broadway, New York City.

KNOCK RATING OF 6 PROMINENT PREMIUM GASOLINES

These 3 cent premium gasolines were tested on the Midgely (Bouncing Pin) Indicator according to an established standard scale over a period of 6 months, from November, 1928, to May, 1929, with the following results:

	MINIMUM KNOCK RATING	MAXIMUM KNOCK RATING	AVERAGE KNOCK RATING
Fuel A	6	10	9
Fuel B	5	13	8
Fuel C	0	5	2½
Fuel D	3	7	6½
Fuel E	3	5	4½

YOUR TYDOL DEALER NOW OFFERS YOU—

1. The same Hi-test TYDOL . . . Hi-test TYDOL will continue to be the leader of non-premium gasolines — unchanged in quality or price.
2. The new TYDOL ETHYL . . . a de luxe, super fuel with a zero knock rating, at only 3c more a gallon.
3. VEEDOL Motor Oil . . . Made 100% from Pennsylvania and other paraffine base crudes . . . the choice of famous aviators.

News from the World on Wheels

A Chevrolet with a chassis built in 1913, a full year before the World War began, and a motor that was assembled when our doughboys were encamping back in 1917, is still in daily use at Goliad, Texas. It is called "Spark Plug" by its proud owner, Hugo Wilks, and of the millions of Chevrolets in use on both hemispheres it is perhaps the oldest. On several occasions Wilks has hitched a trailer to "Spark Plug" and pulled a load of 2,000 pounds, plus the 815 pounds which the trailer weighs, all the way to San Antonio, 125 miles distant. Not long ago he piled it high with a 1515 pound load of cotton bales and drove it through a dry creek bed—a road which no other driver in the section would dare traverse in a modern car. Many times he has driven it with water up to the floor boards.

The new Durant "Six-Sixty Three", a car conforming to Durant's established high standards of beauty, comfort, economy and dependability has just been announced by the new executive group who recently took over the direction of Durant operations. Spacious interiors, rich upholstery, tasteful color harmonies and graceful body lines are among the characteristics which appeal to the woman buyer.

A fully illuminated front compartment when required and complete control over the instrument panel lights combine one of the exclusive features of the new Viking, the V-type, eight cylinder automobile recently introduced as a companion car the Oldsmobile Six. The advantages of this unusual lighting arrangement is obvious to all automobile drivers. To permit of this convenience the instrument panel lights are on a separate circuit and not connected with the headlight control. At a result the Viking can be driven at night with headlights on and no illumination on the instrument panel or in the driver's compartment. This is particularly advantageous when driving on dark nights and keen vision is necessary.

MAY POINT WAY TO PIRATE LOOT

Finding of Ancient Cannon Off Cuba Excites Treasure Hunters.

Havana.—Four more antique cannon have been discovered at Cayo Coco, a small key off the south coast of Cuba, submerged in the ocean. The discovery has caused treasure hunters of that vicinity to start out with renewed hope of uncovering hidden treasure deposited in that region by the pirates who roamed the Spanish Main several hundred years ago. New expeditions are being fitted out with this end in view, it is announced.

The cannon bear the English crown with the initials "J. A.," and the date 1520, and are thought to have belonged to a unit of the fleet of English pirate craft that was sunk in an engagement with an enemy vessel.

A number of discoveries of cannon have been made along various parts of the Cuban coast, and it is known that years ago the West Indies were practically the headquarters of a number of pirate craft. Tradition states that the Isle of Pines was the "Treasure Island," of which Robert Louis Stevenson wrote.

Seven Recently Found.

Seven cannon were recently dug up at Cayo Largo, off Batabano, 30 miles from Havana, and are thought to contain pirate treasure, and public speculation will be satisfied within a few days when the seals that plug the mouths of the cannon are removed. Legend has it that the pirate Latrobe, after seizing a Spanish galleon, stripped her of her guns, filled their barrels with treasure in gold and other valuables, and after sealing the mouths and firing holes, hid the cannon on Cayo Largo. The cannon discovered there were so sealed.

The question of ownership has been discussed between the Fisherman Cortes, who made the find, and the customs house authorities at Batabano, the latter insisting that the government, as in all cases of hidden treasure, is entitled to one-half of the the proceeds of the sale of the cannon.

Four More to Be Raised.

The finder, while admitting that this rule might apply to anything found inside the cannon, held that should the cannon be empty they could not be considered "treasure."

His view was not taken seriously by the authorities, who claim that the cannon cannot be considered as "ordinary goods" as this newsdation and their age put them outside this category and added greatly to their value as historical relics.

There are seven pieces in all in the Batabano find, three of which have been raised and taken to Batabano, where they are being held by the customs house authorities.

Bag, Out for Stroll, Gives Cop a Shock

Detroit, Mich.—In the gray light of the misty dawn a paper bag proceeded slowly across Dubois street in front of the Hunt street police station.

Lieut. Henry R. Taube, somewhat fatigued by a night trick, saw it. Taube looked again.

The bag continued to move at a sedate gait. Going to the drinking fountain, the lieutenant dashed a little cold water in his face and then went back to the window. The bag had reached the other side of the street and was heading for Gratiot avenue.

Taube trailed the bag to Dubois street. When he overtook it, the lieutenant warily knocked it aside with the toe of his shoe. The bag had been doing duty as a sedan for an eight pound turtle.

"Bad Boy of Brazil" Thumbs Nose at Law

Rio De Janeiro.—Virgolino Ferreira da Silva, spectacled, gayly accoutered bad boy of the Brazilian hinterland, who has enough charges against him to fill a docket book, continues to provide cause for the existence of police.

The bandit, better known as Lampeao, Portuguese for lamp post, is roaming through the thinly inhabited sections of the states of Bahai and Sergipe in the northeast, surrounded by a band which has left a bloody trail.

Lampeao is young in appearance. He is blind in one eye, and wears shell-rimmed glasses. Lampeao and his men, sometimes numbering 150, use hardy little mules to evade the police, even though the notorious bandit leader has virtually thumbed his nose at the law and its agents.

Boys' Division Enjoying Camp

The summer clubs of the Boys' Division at the "Y" are well under way with their program. The boys have responded well to the call of the "Y" and before the summer months are over many excellent times will be enjoyed.

The Early Risers' Club is causing the most interest. Several of the boys have been "chided" by their friends because of their inability to resist the early morning appeal of the covers and therefore are late to the Early Risers Class. The club meets on Wednesday morning at 6:30 for swim; with breakfast and Bible study following. Those boys are signed up for the club: Walter Anderson, Harold DeGraff, Donald Eaton, Raymond Davis, John Gilday, Seymour Coutant, George Kelly, Alva Bruce, Raymond Anderson, Alfred Denine, Warren Neer, Daniel Noble, Ed. Hoffbauer, Robt Purvis, Allen Smith, Albert Robinson, Kenneth Tait, William Teetsel and Eugene Knapp.

Camp Preumaker, the "Y" camp for boys will close on August 2, completing one of the most successful seasons in the history of camp life at the "Y." There are several business men of Kingston who can remember the splendid days they had at the "Y" camps of 1908-1911. The boys of Camp Preumaker have had a vacation which they will remember as long as some of Kingston's most prominent men. There is room for a few more for the remaining period. The charge for a week's fun is comparatively small and within the reach of almost all. Boys from 9 years up are accepted.

CREEK LOCKS

Creek Locks, July 18—Mrs. Lombard and son, Frank, of New York city, are spending their vacation with her mother, Mrs. Margaret Wallace and aunt, Mrs. Daniel Dugan.

Miss Elizabeth Tague, Miss Katherine McLaughlin of Providence, R. I., and Miss Anita O'Kane of New York city are spending their vacation at Brookside Farm.

John Heaney of Brookside Farm spent the week end with his parents in New York city.

Mr. and Mrs. Lofquest and children Robert and Doris, of Bay Ridge, Brooklyn, have rented one of Mrs. Maye Porter's houses for the summer.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Melos have their house filled with city boarders.

There is a rumor to the effect that work will be started next fall on a new road through Creek Locks.

Mr. and Mrs. John Coutant and little daughter, Margie, of Hoboken, N. J., have returned to spend the balance of the summer here. Mr. Coutant left again on Friday.

Sympathy is extended to Hiram Clearwater in the death of his father, Elting Clearwater, of Kingston.

This community was saddened by the death of Ernest Hochstadter. He was 93 years old and enjoyed fair health until about a month ago.

Mrs. Julia McGuire and grandson, Joseph Stiner, and Merton Niles of Ridgewood, L. I. have opened their home to spend the balance of the summer.

William Eger and son, William, Jr., of Brooklyn, are spending two weeks' vacation at the Idle Hour.

The Misses Anna and Priscilla Fay of Brooklyn spent the week end with their sister, Mrs. E. Dunn.

State Trooper Archie Reilly spent some time with his mother, Mrs. Emma Reilly.

Mrs. Harry Belz, Mrs. Jacob Weimar, William Eger and son, William Jr., enjoyed a trip to the Ashokan dam on Monday afternoon.

The farmers in this vicinity are making the most of the dry weather and getting their hay in.

Miss Nancy Habbick is spending her vacation with her mother and brothers who are the guests of Mrs. John Perret.

Mrs. Fred Doremus and her daughter, Miss Mary, of Kingston, spent Monday with Mrs. Doremus's sister, Mrs. Alonzo Sagar.

William Perret and Raymond Reilly spent Sunday in New York city.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Rudolph of Astoria called on Mrs. Julia McGuire on Tuesday.

Sauerkraut Traced to Asiatic Wild Tribes

Sauerkraut, once an alien in this country, has been completely naturalized and adopted by the nation, as evidenced by the fact that the figures show that during the last year this nation made and consumed 18,000,000 gallons of sauerkraut. This represents a valuation of $3,500,000. It is no longer looked upon as a dietary of a foreign land. While the Germans are given the credit of originating sauerkraut, the charge is not well founded. There is evidence that it has been made in Holland and in Alsace from early times. One writer traces it to Asia, showing how the Tartars first passed on a sauerkraut recipe to the Slavic peoples of eastern Europe, who in their turn gave it to the ancient Germans. From Germany, it is conceded, the delicacy was brought here by immigrants, who as they increased in numbers spread its popularity as a food.

Anaconda Largest and Most Vicious of Boas

The largest snake in modern times is the anaconda, an aquatic boa, living in the swamps and rivers of the dense forest of South America. It is of a general olive-brown color, with two alternating rows of large oval black spots down its back. It is white with black spots underneath. The anaconda lives in the water, but often climbs into the trees. It feeds on birds and mammals and does most of its hunting at night. Its method is to lie submerged under the water with just its head exposed, watching for prey, or to establish itself in the branches of some tree over water, or the track of game. As it belongs to the boa family, it coils around its victim, crushing it to a pulp before devouring it. It is the most ill-tempered of large boas.

ELEANOR GUNN ON FASHIONS

SUMMER FASHIONS CASTE THE SHADOW OF FALL FASHIONS.

New York.—The resort season being in full swing one has ample opportunity to [illegible] what has been predicted as fashion for summer or to [illegible] their [illegible].

Resort clothes have certainly lived up to expectations as to their gayety and while [illegible] they have [illegible] to [illegible] in most instances. The influence of the tennis dress on resort fashions generally is one of the most amusing developments. At country club dances and at places where good looking dance and dinner frocks are usual evening procedure, there is a marked difference between the elegance of the irregular or frankly long evening dress, and the brief casual aspect of the little frock which was inspired [illegible] of a glance by the type of dress Helen Wills and her contemporaries have been wearing on the courts this tennisland season. These dresses are the choice of the younger set. They are a charming protest against grown up sophisticated clothes, a last determined effort to keep young in dress as well as in mind and body.

That pale or baby blue is one of the new colors for evening and one in which this type of dress frequently appears is another youthful gesture although blue, even baby blue now knows no age restrictions. It is a color equally favored for evening and sports of the gallery in a championship golf match recently showed their preference for dresses that might have easily been worn at informal dances. They ranged in fabrics from silk and wool crepe to chiffon and jersey with here and there a cotton, but their qualifications for party wear consisted in their absence of sleeves, their backless—or relatively backless bodices, their indication of a princess line and of course their pleated and sometimes irregular skirts. Stockings were omitted by many in this particular gathering. The propriety of going stockingless is quite beyond the point of whether or not it is fashionable to do so. Women seem to have arrived at the conclusion that if they are to omit stockings they must do it in the broad light of day instead of at parties for one certainly sees few bare legs after the sun has set; the excuse for going stockingless being that one is becoming healthy because of the curative qualities of the sun, wealthy because of the saving in the dollars spent in stockings and wise because of both.

The presence of the uneven hem by day and the leveling of the hem for evening is another of the season's style-messages. The indicated waistline, at as high a level as is consistent with one's proportions is another. While Paris has set its seal of approval on the polonaise type of dress which has something by way of shirring or gatherings to indicate a waistline when the bodice and peplum are cut in one.

The return to favor of the "chapeau a linge," as the French term the picturesque face framing type of hat, is one of the revolutionary developments in millinery. Agnes offers bonnets, and Reboux the off-the-face hat with wide sides. There are irregular sided hats and a general effort to develop the line of the hat—symptoms of accustoming us to larger hats, by a similar process as was so successfully used to accustom us to longer skirts.

OUR DAILY PATTERN.

A Stylish Afternoon Frock.

6517. Crepe in a new shade of brown, with facings of chartreuse green was used for this stunning design. Black moire or crepe with white for trimming is also suggested. The dress is fitted over the hips and shows effective blousing at the sides. A flare flounce trims the front in an upward curve and ends in a graceful cascade at the left side. The oval neckline is squared by a vestee, and outlined by a soft collar finished with a tie.

This pattern is cut in 5 sizes: 34, 36, 38, 40 and 42 inches bust measure. To make a 38 inch size will require 4¾ yards, 39 inches wide. To make collar, tie, and vestee of contrasting material will require ⅝ yard 39 inches wide; collar and tie to be cut bias, and vestee crosswise of the goods. To finish flounce edge, and sleeves with bias binding or piping will require 2 yards 1½ inch wide. The width of the dress at the [illegible]

A pattern of this [illegible] mailed to any address on receipt of 12c in coin or stamps by the Pattern Department, The Freeman, Kingston, N. Y. Be sure to state the size wanted.

Fashion Book Notice.

Send 15c in coin or stamps to The Freeman for our [illegible] Spring and Summer 1929 Book of Fashions, showing color plates, and containing 500 designs of ladies', misses' and children's patterns, a [illegible] and comprehensive article on dressmaking, also some points for the needle (illustrating 30 of the various simple stitches), all valuable hints to the home dressmaker.

Gayly Bordered Scarf Worn With Silk Frock

Showing a lovely printed silk frock trimmed with a brightly bordered scarf. The bodice is tight-fitting and the skirt circular. A black and white hat belongs to this costume.

Obnoxious Gas

George had been attracted to a house in the neighborhood by the assembled crowd. After an investigation he came to his mother saying: "I went down to Boyd's to see what was the matter. Mr. Boyd is about dead with obnoxious gas in his garage."

Looking for Trouble

Even when you are looking for trouble, there's no place like home.—New York American.

Tweed Likely to Be Fall Favorite

Paris Promises Continuation of Popularity of Mixed Fabric.

[illegible] of [illegible] in the [illegible] Some

Tweed Coat of Brown Flecked With White and Orange.

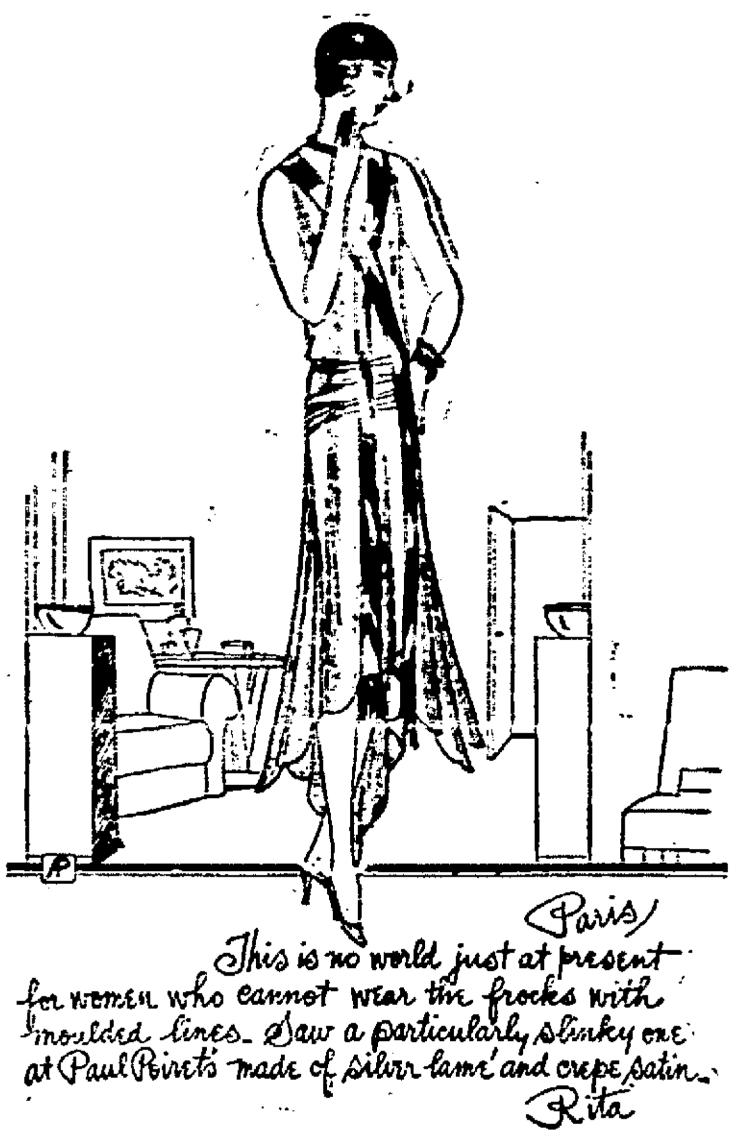

houses show lightweight tweed dresses under coats of the same material.

Black and white wool mixtures are next to brown tweeds in the advance showings. There are many suits of coarse black and white, and white and dark blue mixtures.

The same colorings are featured for coat and skirt ensembles. Dark red and white tweed mixtures also figure in the fall fashions.

Signs point to "dressmaker millinery" with the tweed ensembles of next autumn. Small draped hats of the same material as the costume, and cloth sport hats with stitched brims are expected to play a prominent part in autumn millinery.

Handbags of matching tweed are now almost commonplace with tweed ensembles.

Beauty of Friendship

Blessed are they who have the gift of making friends, for it is one of God's best gifts. It involves many things, but above all the power of going out of one's self and appreciating whatever is noble and loving in the other.—Hughes.

Canfield Making Special Survey

A special survey for the Hoover law commission is being made in New York state by Palmer Canfield, former prohibition administrator in charge of the Albany district, since relieved of his executive duties. Mr. Canfield has been appointed legal advisor in prohibition affairs for the northwestern states. While making the survey, Mr. Canfield will make his headquarters in New York city, but will establish a sub-office in Albany.

Flags on Merchant Vessels

By an ancient rule of the sea merchant ships fly two flags. On the foremast is the flag of the port to which the ship is bound, and on the stern mast the flag of the ship's country is flown.

Eleanor Gunn Says

That the "octagon a luge" or glamorous hat returns to favor in Paris.

Wooden ornaments have led to wooden hats, a timely being a beret of wood shavings.

The backless, sleeveless sports dress was a conspicuous favorite in a fashionable golf gallery.

The backless tennis dress has developed into several interesting phases among which may be mentioned a most informal type of dance frock quite at variance with the long, elegant dresses usually seen.

The draped velvet toque was reported as being worn at the Paris races.

Conservative Newport succumbs to the lure of sunback beach attire and pajamas.

The daring and irregular hemline, well below the knee is the choice of the chic woman these days.

The polonaise dress, by which is meant a dress in which bodice and peplum are cut in one with tucks or vertical gathers to shape the waistline, is cited as the most fashionable type in Paris at the moment.

Silk suits have gained a popularity and run the gamut of silks.

Brown, alone or with red, is cited as the fashionable all color scheme.

Tells of Futile Hunt for Vanished Islands

Sandefjord, Norway.—A search and thorough search for Antarctic islands which had disappeared into the immediate waters of the south has declared by Capt. Nils Larsen, who headed an expedition to take possession of Peter I Island on behalf of Norway.

Besides claiming Peter I Island, which is located at latitude 69 degrees south, longitude 90 degrees west, Captain Larsen's efforts attempted to effect a [illegible] island, but found it impossible [illegible] returned to Norway, arriving here.

Captain Larsen said he had remained in the vicinity of Peter I Island six days, taking photographs, surveying and mapping the coast line.

"South of the Shetland Islands the sea is indescribably desolate and empty," Captain Larsen said. "We tried to locate Thompson Island and 'The Chimneys,' but both seemed to have vanished into the sea from which they had come. We also [illegible] Dougherty Island, but it also appeared to have vanished."

Club Life So Inviting Wives Won't Stay Home

London.—Englishmen are complaining that women's clubs are getting so comfortable and luxurious that their wives won't stay home. They blame Americans for setting the example. The newest and finest of the women's clubs will be the Ladies Carlton club on Grosvenor place. In the building will be Turkish baths, a swimming pool, a squash rackets court and a miniature skating rink.

Two-Headed Calf Born

Marquette

BUILT BY BUICK

$965 TO $1035

These prices f. o. b. Buick Factory, special equipment extra. Marquette delivered prices include only reasonable charges for delivery and financing. Convenient terms can be arranged on the liberal G.M.A.C. Time Payment Plan.

Consider the delivered price as well as the list price when comparing automobile values.

"A Great Performer" the Marquette is being hailed, the nation over. Never before in a car of moderate price have there been such acceleration, speed, control, handling ease, roadability, flexibility, balance! Only Buick could offer such superlative performance.

In Marquette you get an engine of remarkably large displacement. You get speed that holds an honest 60 or 70 miles an hour with unequaled ease, steadiness and security. You get acceleration of from 10 to 60 miles an hour in high gear in 21 seconds.

And this great new car introduces many more unusual features: Beautiful Fisher bodies. Exclusive new upholstery proofed against water, dust and wear. Dustproof tilt-ray headlights. An exclusive new sloping non-glare windshield. Four Lovejoy hydraulic shock absorbers. Easy-acting, completely enclosed, four-wheel brakes.

The Marquette is easy to own on the liberal G.M.A.C. terms. Come in and see this complete car. Take the wheel and learn the thrill of Marquette performance.

WITCHERY SEEN IN MURDER OF AGED SEERESS

Police Baffled by Strange Killing of Fortune Teller in Georgia.

Atlanta, Ga.—The strange case of Martha Russell, eighty years old "seeress," murdered in her little red cottage recently, has baffled police and private investigators, and left an eerie feeling in the city of Rome, Ga., where she lived, that there was much in the realm of witchcraft behind the slaying.

Among the superstitious negroes and white farmers of northern Georgia there is a tradition that no gun can kill a "witch." Miss Russell was slain with a knife. Her throat was cut three times, and she also was stabbed in the breast.

The woman who had made a name through the countryside as a fortune teller, and spinner of "voodoo charms," came from Scotland many years ago. The black arts and superstitions of the heaths and moors of her native land were said to have been part of her stock in trade.

Many Visited Her.

Into the dim parlor of her little cottage thousands had come through the years, white and black, to ask her aid. Some wanted enemies "hexed." Others wanted to find lost jewelry. The majority wanted advice on love problems. The little old woman, described as having long gray white hair, a wrinkled face with a heavy lip, would pound an old cane, and in a wheezy voice dole out her warnings and suggestions.

In boxes she kept dried spiders, various roots and herbs, dried frog skins, watermelon seeds, and string beans. These charms were sold for various sums, depending on the seriousness of the questioner's ailment.

A mechanic, suffering from a skin disease, found her body when he came to receive aid. The body lay on the floor, blood about it. Boxes of charms were opened. Oddly enough $200 in bills was left untouched.

Premonition of Death.

Who killed Martha Russell remains as moot a question today as the day of the murder. It was certain she had either a premonition or a casual fear of death. A few days before she was slain she called a neighbor to the fence, and said, "Look out for me. Something is going to happen."

One illuminating letter was found in her possessions. It left little light on the murder mystery, but a great deal on her activities and indicated some who was "hexed" may have killed her.

It read in part:

"Dear Aunt Martha: I want you to do some work for me. I want you to bring back this man to me, for I love him and I don't want him to go with other girls. . . . I will see you before long. Please go to work on this man as soon as you get this letter."

Autoist Loses Mudhole—Oh! Yes, Car Was in It

Catskill, N. Y.—Unique in the list of lost automobiles is that of a New York city man whose machine got stuck in a mudhole near here recently.

He can't find the mudhole, nor, therefore, the automobile.

Taking the wrong road out of Catskill recently, his car stuck in the mud as he attempted to turn around in a farmer's yard. The farmer, perhaps suspicious of robbery, refused to let him use the telephone to call a garage. After walking back to Catskill and waiting until daylight for a garage to open, the motorist was unable to recall which road he had taken.

Search has failed to reveal the location of the farmyard or the automobile.

EERIE GHOST FOUND TO BE SIMPLY AIRY

Graveyard Mystery Is Only Freak of Radio.

Buffalo, N. Y.—Sounds of music and the quavering voice of a woman issuing from a mausoleum in Pine Hill cemetery at last has been exposed as those of—but it's a bit too early in the story to tell everything.

It all started a few weeks ago when a couple parked in a car near the cemetery heard a voice of eerie sweetness singing in the darkness.

The couple tarried no longer. The word went around that the ghost of a woman sang nightly in the cemetery.

Crowds collected along the roadside to listen to the voice that issued from the grave. Some, a trifle bolder than the rest, entered the graveyard to search for the source of the voice.

Coming upon the mausoleum, the bold ones heard a woman's voice and the notes of a pipe organ. Fear-stricken, they rushed back to tell the faint-hearted ones outside the fences of their discovery.

The crowds grew larger each night. Where no policemen were needed before to handle traffic on the roads near the cemetery, five were called upon to direct the great number of cars that drove by.

And then things reached a climax. A small group of investigators, including a reporter, decided to get at the bottom of things—ghost or no ghost. In they went, leaving a gaping crowd at the front gate.

"Hear that," one said, as they approached the mausoleum. Sure enough, a woman's voice came quaveringly from the tomb.

And then out of the darkness strolled a police officer.

"That's no ghost," he said. "Listen more closely and you'll find that's an outdoor speaker on a radio shop over there on Harlem road. The mausoleum catches the sound waves and when you stand close by you can hear the music and talking."

Thus the voice that was thought by many to be supernatural was later revealed as that of WGR, one of Buffalo's largest broadcasting stations.

Cheats Niagara's Swirl and Drowns in Bathtub

Buffalo, N. Y.—To escape death in the swirling currents of the Niagara river after his rowboat was upset by an ice floe, only to lose his life by drowning in his own bathtub a week later, was the fate of John H. Olst, twenty-two years old, of this city, whose body was found in a tub of water.

A defective gas heater was still burning in the bathroom. The coroner found that asphyxiation had first made the victim helpless and that when unconscious he had slipped under the water.

The circumstances of Olst's death recalled the fate of Bobby Leach, who went over the Horseshoe falls in a barrel, only to slip on an orange peel and suffer fatal injuries while traveling in Australia to tell of his exploits at Niagara falls.

Modern Fagin Trains Dog to Commit Theft

Watsonville, Calif.—Henry Andrews was arrested for sending his dog into an automobile accessory shop and directing the animal to pick up a small package which the dog brought to its master.

Theft of the package would have been completed successfully had not a policeman observed the dog enter the store while Andrews stood across the street.

The officer waited until the animal retreated with the package, which contained a motormeter, then nabbed Andrews.

Cow Has Five Calves

Canwood, Sask.—A dairy cow, owned by Alfred Rasmussen, gave birth to five calves. All were dead when born, but were fully developed.

Water Was Too Cold

Fall River, Mass.—After leaping into a pond here, to commit suicide, Alexander Middell found the water too cold and swam back to shore.

BARUCH LOOKS OVER FOREIGN BATHS AND "CURES"

Paris, July 19 (AP).—European fads and fancies that attract people to famous watering places are being looked over by Bernard Baruch, New York financier, for possible use at Saratoga, N. Y.

Baruch, who is chairman of the committee supervising the regeneration of the famous racing center, came here early in July on a trip to Carlsbad, Marienbad, Kissingen and other noted resorts in search of ideas.

Baths—and "cures," scientists have reported to the committee, can be as effective at Saratoga as over here. They found the water there of great medicinal value and Baruch thinks the other attractions can be added.

"If You Don't Feel Well Try Nu-Erb" Advises This Man

"No Excuse For Feeling Half Sick All The Time Since This Medicine Is Available" He Says.

"Nu-Erb has surely done all that is claimed for it in my case and if there is anybody who suffers from troubles such as I did they should, in my opinion, give Nu-Erb a chance to help them," said Mr. Walter H. Van Leuven, Sleightsburg, N. Y. (Near Kingston).

"For a number of years, my stomach had been in a disordered condition and I have suffered much misery and distress because of gas, which formed in large quantities and crowded up against my heart, giving me much pain and distress through my chest. I'd get severe attacks of heartburn, frequent dizzy spells and headaches from which I could get no relief. My kidneys were in a weakened condition and my back ached so that at times I could hardly straighten up.

"My wife had been using Nu-Erb with such splendid results that I, too, decided to give it a trial, that is only a few weeks ago, but it has entirely overcome the indigestion and gas in my stomach. I can sit down now and eat a full meal of anything that is put before me and never have any trouble with my stomach afterward. It has also put an end to the dizzy spells and those dreaded headaches. It has strengthened my kidneys so that the pains have left my back and I have no trouble in that way. I can highly recommend this medicine to anybody."

"If you suffer from indigestion,

gas in stomach, acid risings, poor appetite, biliousness, dizzy spells, pains in the back, rheumatism, constipation or any one of the many symptoms of a disordeerd stomach, kidneys, liver or bowels then it is time that you heeded the advice of so many other local persons and started using Dr. French's Nu-Erb, the great herbal medicine that is being introduced in Kingston.

McBride Drug Store, 312 Wall St., is headquarters in Kingston for Nu-Erb. Go see the Nu-Erb man now making his headquarters there and let him explain to you the merits of this remarkable medicine.

Recruits Will Go to Hawaii

Sergeant John P. Giblin in charge of the local Army Recruiting Office, at the Central Postoffice, announces that the United States Transport "Somme" will leave New York city on July 22 for the Panama Canal, San Francisco, and the the Hawaiian Islands. The sergeant states that this is a fine opportunity for young men of good character to serve in a fine organization. There are but ten vacancies. In the list of assignments are the Air Corps (non-flying), infantry, coast artillery and engineers, and the applicant may select his branch of service.

OFFICE CAT

By Junius

Salesmanship is the art of taking "No" as a polite invitation to keep on talking.

Many a man's peck of trouble come in liquid form.

"I shay dare, Misher Groshery Mans, has youse sheen a man—"

"Yes, we have cinnamon. How much do you want?"

"No—hick. Groshery Mans, I means I'm only ah—"

"Ammonia! Now what do you want cinnamon or ammonia?"

"Shay dare, quit kiddins me. L'se am only ah ashking youse if youse hash sheen ah man shtanding out shide."

If you desire to be known as a good conversationalist just let the other fellow do most of the talking.

Not His Kind.

"Maude's very fond of Jack."
He heard, and popped—alack!
She promptly answered "No".
The "jack" she loved was dough.

A prominent Kingston man eats with his knife and hasn't cut his mouth yet.

Which reminds another prominent citizen of something a man told him once. "I was so humiliated when my wife left her spoon in the coffee cup," said the man, "that I let the peas roll off my knife."

"My dear," called Mrs. Jones to her husband who was in the kitchen, "what are you opening that can with?"

"With a can-opener of course," he said, "what did you think I was doing it with?"

"Well," replied Mrs. Jones, "from your remarks I thought you were opening it with a prayer."

A fortune awaits the inventor of a life boat that will float on a sea of trouble.

FIVE CLERKS I KNEW

This store clerk was very bold
And that was why he never sold
As much as some who are polite
And say, "the customer is right!"

And this one always had a date
At night he stayed out very late.
He dozed and moped throughout the day
And didn't earn a half his pay.

Then here's a clerk who dressed like sin.
Had lots of whiskers on his chin.
A good old scout, but far too messy.
Women like 'em a bit more dressy.

Now here, bub Jove! a dude, I mean.
He goes too far to tother extreme.
He means well, yes—but just the same
He's too elite to play the game.

Here at last is a regular fellow.
Full of work, never yellow;
Cheerful, neat, with lots of fight
Working hard from morn 'till night.

A clerk like this is worth two verses.
He has ideas, makes coins leave purses.
Makes lots of money for the firm.
Some day he'll run his own concern.

Rag—"I notice that Mabel has an inferior complex."

Time—"Hate those foreigners, don't you?"

In Chicago?

"Oh, dear, I've missed you so much." (But she raised the revolver and tried again.)

Don't you hate to see a beautiful friendship between a man and a woman broken up by marriage?

It's more blessed to give than to receive only when you have nothing to give.

First Knut—What would a nation be without women?

Second Ditto—A stagnation, I guess.

4 Robins Cost Hunter $27.50

Marlborough, July 19.—The possession of four robins [illegible] Miles of Marlborough, who recently bought the [illegible] property on the Dock road, [illegible]. His friend, who is reported to have been hunting with him and who was from New Jersey was fined the same amount for hunting without a license. The arrests were made by [illegible] Nolan, who found the men [illegible] and Mr. Miles with the four robins in his possession. The case was heard Saturday morning before [illegible], Jr., and the fines imposed. [illegible] should teach the men that it is rather expensive to be caught hunting without a license, or to be in the possession of robins.

Mr. Nolan also caught George Andria of New York city in the act of shooting songbirds, without a license, at the Marlborough dock recently. He accompanied the [illegible] on a visit to court and Justice D. S. Hutchins fined him the small amount of $27.50. Mr. Nolan exhibits five robins in all as the total shot during the past week. How many more lay dead in the vicinity he was unable to tell.

Market for Fruits And Vegetables

New York, July 19 (AP).—(State Department of Agriculture and Markets)—Owing to the scarcity of spinach today, wholesale prices advanced. Trading was fairly active. New York upstate offerings, in bushel baskets, peddled out as high as $3.00.

Liberal supplies and limited buying resulted in a further slump in green peas. Jobbing sales on state bushel baskets were made at $1.50-$2.50, occasionally $2.75-$3.00. Offerings from the Pacific northwest in crates of approximately 40 pounds sold at $5.00-$6.00.

During the preceding week green pea shipments from New York state totaled 65 carloads. Idaho marketed 25. The movement from Washington amounted to 120 cars.

String bean shipments are gradually increasing from upstate. Fancy, tender beans met a ready sale, but inferior received scant attention. The finest wax beans changed hands at $3.50 a bushel basket; green round at $2.25 and green flat at $2.50. Fava beans sold at $2.00-$2.50.

The market continued entirely in the buyers' favor on state Big Boston lettuce. Supplies were far greater than trade requirements. A large volume of business was consummated at 25c-75c a crate of 24 heads. Iceberg lettuce from the Pacific coast jobbed out from $1.00-$5.00 per crate of 36 and 60 heads. Last week the forwardings of lettuce in carlots from this state increased to 315 cars, compared with 500 from California and 185 from Washington.

Cauliflower of good quality and large size met a prompt sale in a steady market. The season's first offerings from Erie county arrived today and sold at $1.75-$2.00 a crate. Catskill Mountain cauliflower peddled out at mainly $2.00-$3.50 and Washington at $3.25-$3.50.

Supplies of onions from Orange county, New York, were limited. The market ruled steady on yellows, bus slightly weaker on red. Jobbing sales through the stores of commission merchants on hundred-pound sacks of yellow onions were made at $3.00-$3.25 and $2.50-$3.00 on reds.

50,000 Have Stomachaches

Mexico City, July 19 (AP).—Fifty thousand residents of the Mexican federal district have stomach aches.

The figures are those of the federal health department which explained the ache is due to a strange digestive malady believed caused by drinking water contaminated by the recent hea y rains.

The malady is bothersome but does not cause grave illness.

SIGNALING WITH FLAGS

FLAG language or the system of marine signaling is something that most of us have witnessed. If we have not had the opportunity to see this in operation at first hand we have seen in the "movies" the bluejackets of one ship conversing with a vessel perhaps half a mile away by means of flags which they waved in the air according to a certain code.

The code in use is universal, so a vessel using a signal book printed in English can communicate with a vessel using a signal book printed in Italian or the language of any other maritime nation. It is of British origin and dates from 1856.

The use of flags as signals, however, is of ancient origin. The Venetians are known to have made wide use of them in this way and there is evidence that simple signals of this kind were employed in still earlier times. It was not until 1856, however, that Great Britain initiated the detailed system that is used throughout the world today.

THIS AND THAT TO EAT

A FRESH fish chowder is always a most enjoyable dish, but when the fresh fish are not to be obtained, salt codfish will make a most wholesome one, prepared in the same way, just dropping the soaked cod in the soup, as it will need little cooking.

Fish Chowder.

Clean and wash three pounds of fish. Place in cold water and simmer until tender. Fry one-fourth pound of salt pork until light brown, add a quart of boiling water, two cupfuls of sliced potatoes, one-fourth cupful of sliced onion, two cupfuls of any mixed vegetables or the same amount of potatoes, season well, add at the last one quart of rich milk and the cooked fish. Scald one-half dozen milk crackers, add one or two to each bowl of chowder when serving.

Orange Cup Cakes.

Cream one cupful of sugar, one-half cupful of butter, add the yolks of two eggs well beaten, one-half cupful of milk, one and one-half cupfuls of pastry flour to which one-fourth teaspoonful of salt, one and one-half teaspoonfuls of baking powder and the grated rind of an orange is added. Fold in the beaten egg whites. Mix and bake in gem pans. When cool cover with confectioner's sugar mixed with orange juice and a little rind.

Prune Nut Salad.

Take one-half pound of soaked and stewed prunes, cut from the stones lengthwise. Break one-half pound of nut meats into small pieces. Mix one-half cupful of salad oil, four tablespoonfuls of lemon juice, one-half teaspoonful of salt, a few dashes of celery salt. Serve over leaves of lettuce.

Hot Pot.

Cut two pounds of the neck of lamb into pieces, add salt, pepper and a tablespoonful of flour, roll each piece in the seasoned flour. Place a layer of potatoes in a deep dish, cover with a layer of the meat, then add a layer of shredded onion, repeating until all the meat is used. Cover with milk and bake in a slow oven for three hours.

Peanut Soup.

Take one cupful of peanut butter, one cupful of hot water, two tablespoonfuls of butter, two of flour, one teaspoonful of salt, one-half teaspoonful of pepper and six cupfuls of milk. Mix the butter and flour, add the water, cook until smooth, add milk, remove, add the peanut mixture, beat thoroughly, add seasonings and serve hot.

Fruit Cream Punch.

Take four cupfuls of sweet cream, two tablespoonfuls of lemon juice, one cupful of orange juice, four egg whites and sugar to sweeten. Let stand in a pan of ice half an hour. Fold in the whipped egg whites and serve in tall glasses. Crushed strawberry juice, cherry, or pineapple may be substituted.

Lamb Balls.

Cut the meat from a two-pound neck piece and grind in a meat grinder. Add two slices of bacon chopped, one-half cupful of bread crumbs, one tablespoonful of catsup, one teaspoonful of salt and a bit of onion. Combine ingredients, bind together with a little water to moisten and form into balls. Fry in hot bacon fat.

FORT EWEN

Fort Ewen, July 19.—Richard Steeger of New York city is spending his vacation with Mr. and Mrs. Oliver Fowler on Bayard street.

Miss Matilda Hahn, state deputy, of Esopus Council, No. 42, Sons and Daughters of Liberty, made an official visit to said council Wednesday evening.

Mrs. Lillian Cutler, Mrs. Violet Hales of Kingston, Mrs. Mayme Zenke, Mrs. Lottie Reitz of New York city, and Mrs. Catherine Schleede enjoyed an auto ride around the Ashokan reservoir Thursday afternoon.

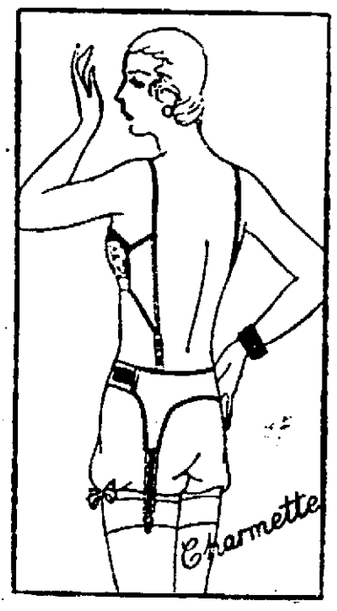

Everyone is invited to the Reformed Church block party this evening on Salem street. Mechanics' Band of Kingston will furnish the music for the evening. Lots of good eats and drinks on sale. Come and spend a pleasant evening and hear good music.

Mrs. Adaline Wells is ill at her home on Broadway. Dr. G. W. Ross is attending her.

Horse Routs Bear From His Pasture

Middleton, N. Y.—While a horse was feeding in a pasture near Hortonville, Sullivan county, a big black bear came leisurely into the field.

The moment the horse caught sight of Bruin he decided the newcomer was not one with whom he desired to associate and forthwith went for the bear, kicking and biting the animal. When last seen the bear was making haste for the woods.

DREAM VILLAGE SOLD AT AUCTION

Proceeds of Sheriff's Sale Go for Taxes.

Pawhuska, Okla.—The fateful rap of an auctioneer's hammer has started the small village of Herd in Oklahoma's vast Osage district toward a place in the realm of "ghost cities."

Virtually the entire town, twenty-five miles north of here, has been auctioned off on the steps of the county court house. Behind the sale is a story of a shattered dream of "Old Bill" Easely, territorial rancher and landowner who envisioned the village.

Hardly had the echo of cattle's hoofs died away than the then new Oklahoma town sprang into existence. The Santa Fe promised a railroad through the vast Easely ranch. The road agreed tentatively to build a station on a section of the proposed townsite.

Visioning a city on his ranch, Easely mortgaged his land and invested a small fortune in the town of Herd. He induced a few grocery stores, a lumber yard and other businesses to locate there.

But railroads are no respecters of individual fortunes and plans were changed. The road never came through.

A detailed survey by the Santa Fe disclosed that Herd had been built on a grade which would be costly to cut through.

Easely became embittered toward the railroad company. He fought the building of the right of way through his ranch at all. Armed with a rifle, he guarded fences on his ranch from workmen. He was jailed for violation of a court order.

Three years ago the ranchman died. His property was mortgaged, taxes were not paid and the village had become a place of empty buildings.

The sheriff's sale was to satisfy mortgages and collect taxes. A Sedan (Kan.) bank took five whole blocks, twenty-five scattered lots over the town and an undivided half of a land allotment, which Easely had owned, for its assessed valuation when no other bidders made an offer.

The 415 acres which had composed Easely's home estate was purchased by a Pawhuska man at $5 an acre. Thirty-two other lots went to scattered bidders at prices ranging from $1.50 to $7 per lot.

Must Want Things Loud Enough

By CORONA REMINGTON

(Copyright.)

"IT'S a well-known fact that if you want a thing hard enough you get it—that is hard enough and long enough."

John Winton straightened in his seat and stared at the lecturer. It was the first remark Doctor Jameson had made that had attracted his attention.

"The magic of wishing," the lecturer went on. "That's what you might call it—for its power is often magical, and I could cite hundreds of cases where the effect has been almost miraculous. Just get the image of the thing you want in your mind and dwell upon it. Think of it frequently and see it clearly and work for it. Don't get the idea that all you have to do is pray for it. Combine the two—wishing and working. They're a great team and an equal amount of both will have a great effect.

"That's all today. Thank you."

Amid a short spatter of applause the lecturer left the platform and John Winton worked his way out with the crowd.

"Pretty good lecture, eh, Winton? You know, I believe there's something in that wishing business."

"I'm inclined to think so, too," John answered.

"My kid believes in it anyhow," laughed the other man. "Mrs. Macmillan and I were talking about these lectures the other evening at dinner, and then my daughter, Gladys, chimed in and said:

"'I know it's true, daddy. If I wish for a thing hard enough and long enough some one always brings it to me.'"

"And loud enough. It might not be bad to put that into the requirements. Some folks want a thing they could have for the asking, but they don't know how to ask, and the person who has it doesn't know it's wanted."

Winton gaped at Macmillan.

"I wonder if that isn't my case," he said, after a pause.

"Your case! Phew! You've never wanted a thing in your life. You've the luckiest young chap I ever knew. You've got brains, an education, money and social position."

"I'd give it all for one thing that I haven't."

"You won't have to—just wish for it hard enough and long enough and loud enough and, there is no doubt that you'll get it."

"Well, I've certainly wished for it long enough and hard enough," laughed the younger man.

"It must be a case of loud enough then."

"I know that it wouldn't do any good."

"No harm in trying," his friend answered hopefully. "Well, so long—see you at the club tonight?"

"Fraid not. I have an important engagement."

And loud enough. The words rang in John's ears all the afternoon. But what earthly use was there in being loud when you knew it was no good? Hadn't Alice Moore as good as told him a thousand times she was in love with Bob Caldwell? Wasn't she always and forever showing him the lovely things Bob was endlessly sending her? And didn't she rave over all he did and said? Why humiliate oneself unnecessarily? Who wanted to be thrown down, anyway? If only she had given him one tiny atom of encouragement—

Loud enough. The idea floated through his mind again. He certainly had not been very loud about it. Just to disprove the theory he would be. What if he did get humiliated? He could stand it and no one would ever know except Alice.

As he walked up the front steps of the Moore home that night his knees nearly gave way beneath him, but the impassive servant evidently noticed nothing as he took his hat and gloves and showed him into the library. In another moment he would be telling her—in another she would be turning him down gently but firmly. He must do it the second she came in or he would lose all courage.

John Winton was not a professional proposer. In fact, he'd never tried it before in his life and he had no idea how a fellow went about it, but he had mapped out a plan that he intended following strictly. He would plead his cause eloquently and fluently and would then take her in his arms and ask her to be his wife.

But he evidently got his order of procedure mixed, for at the first sight of her he took her in his arms and muttered and stammered something about love and marriage. To his utter surprise she made no effort to free herself, but hid her face on his shoulder and slipped two timid arms around his neck.

When the first heavenly moments were over, they seated themselves on the Chesterfield beside the reading lamp.

"Do you know," said Alice after a while, "I heard a wonderful lecture this afternoon by a Doctor Jameson and he said that if you wished for it hard enough and long enough—and I believe it's true. I—I wished for something terribly hard and then I got it today."

John held her closer and kissed the soft brown hair.

"But you must always be sure to wish loud enough, too, dear," he laughed.

Cables Differ in Size

Electric cables used in telephoning have a diameter of .040 inch; in telegraphing, .059 inch. The cables for electric light and power purposes range from ¼ inch to 1 inch and over. The outside diameter of the deep-sea cable is about 1 inch.

Plans Plane to Fly 600 Miles an Hour

London.—Breakfast in London and lunch five hours later in New York—such will be the speed of modern air transport if W. D. Verschoyle's gravitation conquering air machine will work.

The inventor has just applied for a British patent on an invention which he claims will make possible the construction of a machine capable of flying 600 miles per hour, or from London to New York in less than five hours.

Briefly the theory behind his invention is that gravitation is similar to magnetism and is therefore controllable by electricity.

If Verschoyle is able to control gravitation his air machine will arise and descend vertically, thus dispensing with large and unfrequent landing fields. There will be no planes, gas bags or helicopters, the motors being able to attain a speed of 600 miles an hour after conquering gravitation.

Where Turpin Tarried

On the Great North road, in England, stands a very ancient and historical inn, known as the "Eight Bells," and this inn is the cause of much disturbance amongst the local inhabitants because of the likelihood of its being closed down. This old inn has many interesting historical facts attached to it, and, amongst others, Dick Turpin is said to have made frequent calls at the "Eight Bells" during his famous rides between London and York. Another famous writer, according to local report, was Bill Sikes.

Whistler Didn't Hold Job

James McNeill Whistler, famous artist, once was a draftsman in the United States coast and geodetic survey, but he could not hold a job. The painter and etcher insisted on decorating the maps and charts assigned to him to make, with pretty little drawings scattered along the margins. Because of this and the fact that he insisted on doing all his drafting in his own way, Whistler did not remain long in the service of the United States government.

Mexico Imports Faculty for Its Summer School

Mexico City.—Savants from several points of the Americas will participate in the faculty of the summer school of the National university of Mexico, the university authorities have announced. The United States, Chile, Costa Rica and Ecuador are among the countries which will send professors to give instruction and lectures.

Waldo Frank, author of "Our America," "Virgin Spain" and "The Rediscovery of America," will lecture on the "The United States, Spain and Spanish America."

Dr. Gonzalo Zaldumbide, minister of Ecuador to the United States and a noted sculptor, will lecture on "America and the League of Nations."

Pedro Prado, Chilean novelist and diplomat, is to speak on Chilean literature and "The Political Action of America."

Hoyt Hops Off For Yukon

New York, July 19 (AP)—The Curtiss Flying Service was advised by telegraph today that Captain Ross G. Hoyt, flying from Mitchel Field, N. Y., to Nome, had taken off from Edmonton, Alberta, for White Horse, Yukon, one hour after he landed there this morning. He is expected to reach White Horse about mid-afternoon.

From Edmonton his route takes him to White Horse, Yukon, 1,100 miles; Fairbanks, Alaska, 500 miles and to Nome, 500 miles.

After a six-hour stop at Nome, he will return to New York by the same route.

Although his plane is capable of 150 miles an hour, he expects to average 140 miles an hour with actual flying time set at 61 hours and 40 minutes.

From Mitchel Field to Minneapolis he averaged 141 miles. His plane consumed 219 gallons of gas. He encountered head winds all the way and passed through several thunder storms.

The purpose of the flight, he said, is to determine how fast army pursuit planes can be sent to a far distant point with fuel capacity and horsepower increased.

Three Women Injured in Crash

A Chevrolet sedan driven by Charles P. Rohman of New York city and a truck of the Newcombe Oil Corporation, driven by Chester A. Hotaling of 15 Wiltwyck avenue, this city, collided at the turn in Hurley village about 5 o'clock Thursday afternoon. Mr. Rohman is stopping at Rosendale.

Mrs. Rohman received scalp wounds, Mrs. James Moran received injuries to her head and Miss Moran was slightly cut and bruised. All three were taken to the Kingston Hospital for treatment. The Rohman car was badly damaged. A report of the accident was made to the sheriff.

7 Dead, Nine Injured in Blast

New Kensington, Pa., July 19 (AP)—Seven dead and nine injured was the toll today of the explosion which last night wrecked part of the Logan's Ferry works of the United States Aluminum Company, a subsidiary of the Aluminum Company of America.

Coroner W. J. McGregor said after a preliminary investigation that a machine belt became clogged and friction or a spark probably had caused an explosion of dust.

The explosion wrecked two connecting brick and steel one-story buildings and rocked the entire New Kensington district.

METHODIST MINISTER SUFFERS FOURTH STROKE.

Rev. I. W. Hill, for more than forty years pastor of various Methodist charges and for several years serving the pastorate at Accord, lies critically ill at his home at White Sulphur Springs, after a fourth stroke of paralysis. Robust physically, the seventy-eight year old pastor had recovered from previous strokes until July 11, when he was again attacked. In 1928 Mr. Hill's left leg was amputated below the knee at the Methodist Hospital in Brooklyn, and he fully recovered from that. The operation resulted from a slight foot infection which developed blood poisoning. During his ministry Mr. Hill has been pastor of Methodist Churches at Almond, Ridgebury, Prattsville, Accord, Athens-on-Hudson, Bridgeville, Glen Wild and Rock Hill.

POLITICAL POT IN SAUGERTIES SIMMERING.

According to the Saugerties Post the political pot is beginning to simmer in that town. On the Republican side the names of Charles H. Bennett, Stuart B. Maxwell and Henry A. Lamouree are being mentioned as supervisor prospects. John Weiand will seek renomination for town clerk, as will Harry K. Myer for superintendent of highways, and Samuel Teetsel of Quarryville has aspired for the nomination for town superintendent of highways. Arthur L. Ransom, Malden, it is said, will accept the nomination for collector. On the Democratic side there appears to be no opponent for supervisor to John C. Shults, who has filled the office since 1924.

DROWNED FROM CANAL TOW TRYING TO MAKE SHORE

Amsterdam, N. Y., July 19 (AP)—Efforts to recover the body of Joseph McLaughlin, of Yonkers, who drowned yesterday when he attempted to swim ashore from a barge canal tow with a line, were being made by Montgomery county authorities today.

The accident occurred near Auriesville. McLaughlin had boarded the tow at Yonkers, intending to go to Rome in quest of work. The tug grounded in the river and he volunteered to swim ashore with a light line to which was attached a towing cable. He sunk when half way to the beach. His brother-in-law, Louis Dare, was a member of the tow's crew.

Showing Two Charming Models for the Country. For a Week-End Visit There is the One at the Left—White Voile With Colored Embroidery, Showing the Irregular Cut in Both Skirt and Cape. The Other, for Active Service, Is a Sports Model of Washable Sun-Tan Flat Crepe.

Washable Frocks Chic for Summer

Cotton, Linen, Crepes, Tub Silks, Shirtings Are Favored Fabrics.

The tub frock, preferably without sleeves, is the answer to chic this season, declares a fashion writer in the New York Times. Love for life in the open and for its sports and social activities has influenced taste in dress, and as a practical proposition the frocks and suits that will answer for daytime wear and emerge with beauty of texture and color unmarred by sun or laundry are in demand. It is fashionable to be dainty and fresh as well as comfortable, and every woman who spends her summer in the country will have an assortment of washable frocks.

Instantly arises the vexing problem of laundering, what with modern buildings from which the necessary equipment has been omitted, country homes in which the servant problem grows more complex and summer resorts where the laundering of fine frocks is prohibitive in price if not impossible at any price. Indifferent to this handicap, however, smartly dressed women will chance the consequences and wear pretty fresh frocks of cotton, linen—plain and printed—tub silks, crepes and shirtings and the synthetic fabrics, of which there are so many beautiful varieties.

Cotton, which was introduced early in the season, is now at the peak of the mode. As an old American institution it has always had its place, for long a humble one, and this year it comes bearing the hall-mark of the Paris couture in a great variety of dresses, as in the days when, to quote a famous designer, "The rustle of a petticoat in France spells silk, elsewhere starch."

The revival of this practical, economical dress goods is due not only to whim of fashion and the eternal pursuit of something new, but to the fact that artistic models are being made by leading couturieres for both the French and American clientele. One compelling argument is its comparative inexpensiveness, so that any woman, rich or otherwise, may indulge in many changes and greater diversity of styles than if she confined her season's outfit to silks and woolens.

The artists of both France and Great Britain are sending over models of unusual design in pique velveteen, hand-blocked linen and cotton, frocks and suits of cotton pique, terry cloth and the weaves used by London dressmakers.

Sports clothes of these materials are worn from morning till night, except for formal entertaining at private homes and clubs. These are made in frocks, two-piece suits and coats. Some of the severely tailored frocks for tennis and other sports are made of pique in white or one of the new pastel shades. The sleeveless model is apparently preferred for the one-piece with belt and for the two-piece suits, which include a dress, sleeveless and carrying a belt, and a jacket all of the same material.

Without there being apparent any radical changes in these dresses, there are differences, new features that are refreshing. Individuality is emphasized more and more, sometimes is even translated into eccentricity, which is considered all the smarter. The innovations are subtle, the skirt, for example, being made with diagonal stitching, a flare, circular flounce, or a new arrangement of plaits. Somehow the bodice remains much the same—plain, with perhaps a scarf or jabot, and invariably sleeveless. The sun-tan back fad shows no sign of fading, and many of the sports frocks are cut so, and arms are tanned accordingly.

One of the summer suits that reflects the vogue of black has a sleeveless coat and skirt of coarse black linen and a blouse of orange batiste, with long sleeves and wide collar and jabot down the front. This suit is even more striking if worn with a muslin blouse in white.

Wash Goods Are Interesting.

Delightful styles come from different designers who use wash goods. Redfern has a flaring three-quarters coat of blue and white printed linen to be worn over a sleeveless dress of plain white linen, and another in which there is a smart basque coat made of black and yellow polka dot cotton stuff and skirt of black cotton etamine. Drecoll-Beer, Chantal, Mary Nowitsky and Lucien Lelong are others in Paris who are showing us the merits of the tub dress, and some smart models in pique and tub silk reflect the inspiration of Worth.

A model from Premet is a simple one-piece frock, flaring around the bottom, with the normal waistline outlined by a ribbon belt tied in a bow at one side. In the bodice of this model the figure is outlined and the sleeves are snug from shoulder to wrist.

Jane Regny makes a two-piece suit of green linen in original design, with a plain skirt plaited in a cluster at each side and a plain tunic with patch pockets, belt and a tie to finish the long, slender turn-over collar. Chantal, Goupy, Nicole Groult and Schiaparelli have done artistic wonders with linens and cottons in one-piece and two-piece frocks, some very plain and others with skirts circular or plaited—models that seem actually to invite the perplexities of laundering.

For a fresh suit to wear at the club after golf or tennis there are some particularly intriguing models in the synthetic fabrics. Rayon pique, which is new and comes in several variants, unweighted flat crepe, Celanese washable moire, taffeta and ninon, and the Bemberg fabrics, particularly the new pique, are all dressy in effect and a delight to wear because they are good to the very end.

The younger set continues to go hatless whenever it is possible, but new millinery styles have made their appearance in the wide-brim farmer straw, the small berets and the turbans of fabrics that have the appearance of a bandage.

Frock for Town Wear.

A successful partnership of style and economy solves the summer dress problem for the women who remain in town or who commute five or six days in the week. The tub frock for everyday service is largely a snare and delusion in a wardrobe of this sort, for its freshness holds up barely a few hours, and by the end of the day it is something of a wreck.

A sports model or simple one-piece of crepe, foulard, voile, etamine or any of their several relatives is far more satisfactory. Lines for such frocks are tailored whether the dress is a two-piece suit with a sweater or tuck-in blouse or the informal frock varied with bias flounces, godets, insets or plaiting. Dark colors are most practical and black is always smart, though it is less comfortable for summer and looks hot. Both plain goods and the prints are fashionable this year, and polka dots from the tiniest to the big coin spots have come back strongly. Nothing is in better taste than a frock of silk or crepe printed with a small dot or figure, in black, blue or beige, with white, made simply. Such frocks are worn often with collar and cuffs of white batiste.

A model copied from Vionnet is a navy blue crepe de chine one-piece with fagoting—done by hand or machine—forming a panel in the front of the blouse, and a cluster of plaits on each side of the skirt, held close by a suede belt.

Use FREEMAN advertising regularly and conservatively and results will surely follow.

ADMITS TO FOUR WIVES. HAD A FIFTH IN VIEW

New York, July 19 (AP).—Samuel Bagum, 35, a painter, who admitted he had four wives and was courting a fifth woman with a view to marrying her, was placed in the police line-up today after wife No. 4 had him arrested.

Mrs. Gertrude Gabum said her husband married her May 12, 1928, in Philadelphia, and since they have been living here. She discovered his fifth romance, however, and complained to the police who learned that Bagum had also married women in Washington, Cleveland and Los Angeles.

He was held as a fugitive from justice from Philadelphia.

General Hagood Relieved.

Washington, July 19 (AP).—Major General Johnson Hagood was today relieved of his assignment to command of the Seventh Corps Area with headquarters at Omaha, Nebraska.

Financial and Commercial

New York, July 19 (AP).—Disregarding the establishment of a new high record in Federal Reserve Bank loans, the stock market continued to move upward today although the advance was by no means uniform. Buying operations were conducted with considerable vigor in a varied assortment of steel, public utility, rail, electrical and railroad shares, a dozen of which moved into new high ground. Several of the motor and oil shares were conspicuously heavy.

Call money renewed at 5 per cent but funds became so plentiful that the rate was dropped to 4 in the early afternoon other monetary accommodations held steady.

While some nervousness was apparent as a result of the increase of $58,000,000 in brokers' loans, Wall Street seemed more interested in the reduction of member bank borrowings at the Federal Reserve.

Trade news continued favorable. A better demand was reported for copper by foreign and domestic consumers. Another flock of favorable earnings' reports made their appearance, and Wall Street was again flooded with rumors of stock split-ups and higher dividends.

United States Steel common returned to its old role as the market leader by climbing more than 4 points to a new high at 2[illegible]. Republic crossed 114 to a new top. Gulf States Steel advanced more than 3 points, and some of the other so-called independents advanced a point or more.

Major speculative activity was in the public utility shares, several of which were turned over in enormous volume. Public Service of New Jersey, National Power and Light, Standard Gas and Electric and the new United Gas Improvement all climbed into new high ground. Consolidated Gas, Electric Power and Light, Louisville Gas and Detroit Edison sold 2 to 4 points higher. Buying of these issues was based on reports that several new consolidations will be announced before congress reconvenes in the fall.

Bendix Aviation ran up nearly 5 points to a new peak. First National Stores attained a new high on expansion rumors. General Electric, Johns Manville, Safeway Stores, Associated Dry Goods, National Biscuit and American Type Founders also sold 3 or more points above yesterday's final quotations. Anaconda and Andes were the leaders in the copper group.

Quotations given by Parker McElroy & Co., members N. Y. Stock Exchange, 120 Broadway, New York city, branch office, Stuyvesant Hotel.

WHY

Milk Is of Highest Value as Nourishing Food

Only humans are foolish enough to get dogsized. Dogs should not be blamed with their error in overwork or overplay, which is responsible for the illness, according to Walter Camp.

The pressure of modern business, the rush from the time that breakfast is hastily bolted and the bite is caught on the run, all through the rush and strain of dodging automobiles and meeting the demands of high-pressure business is enough to make any human being dog-tired, says Miss Lydia Breecher of the national dairy council.

Our main hope, since most of us have to work, is for use to keep our bodies well nourished so that they may throw off fatigue poisons. Among our restorative foods is milk, which not only helps give us energy for carrying on during the day so that we can do our work without becoming so tired, but is also relaxing and nourishing for the night-time drink.

Why Zero Is Accepted as Symbol for Nothing

"Zero" is the "nought" of arithmetic and, as pretty nearly the whole world knows, it me[illegible] "nothing."

Directly "zero" is derived from the Italian "z[illegible]ro," but for the origin of the cipher, indicating the zero, we must go back to Biblical days.

Thousands of years ago the ancient Hebrews, when they went through certain religious ceremonials, wore around their waist a sort of a girdle.

This girdle was never unbuckled, but always slipped on and off, so that it constantly remained spherical in contour.

The name of this article was "ezor." And in the course of time, because of its unchanging shape and its significance, it became incorporated into the symbolical writing of the entire civilized world for the cipher.—Kansas City Times

Why "Four-Flusher"

A four-flusher, in common parlance, is a bluffer, braggart, or cheat. The term originated in the popular American diversion known as poker. In poker a flush consists of five cards of the same suit. If a player gets four cards of one suit and one card of another suit he has a four flush, also called a bobtail flush. Sometimes a player with a four flush pretends to have a full flush and attempts to drive out an opponent by betting heavy. This practice is perfectly legitimate in poker, but such a play is known as fourflushing. If he succeeds the other players never know what cards he held; if he is called he must show his cards and his bluff is exposed.

Why He Bought Airplane

In order to be able "to admire his crops from the sky," a Serbian peasant recently bought an airplane from a French aircraft firm. The man had seen his first plane two weeks before when one flew over his fields near the village of Silbu, and he was so impressed that he at once went to an airdrome near Belgrade and asked to be shown a similar machine and have its operation explained. "I am rich enough to buy myself an airplane and admire my fields from above," he told the director of the airdrome from whom he ordered the plane. A crowd of admiring neighbors gathered at his farm to see the plane delivered.

Why Shamrock Is Honored

The shamrock (trifolium repens of botanists) is worn in the hat almost everywhere in Ireland on St. Patrick's day because tradition has it that when St. Patrick was preaching Christianity to the pagan Irish he used the three-leaved plant as a symbol of the Trinity. The trefoil is called shamrakh in Arabic, and was held sacred as emblematical of the Persian Triads. According to the natural historian Pliny, serpents are never seen upon trefoil and it prevails against the stings of snakes or scorpions. This is interesting, considering St. Patrick's connection with snakes.

Why Game Is Increasing

The value of game preserves is shown by the experience of the rangers at Glacier National park. In recent years, poaching, once the main problem of the rangers, has almost disappeared. The hunters now realize the value of the preserves for the propagation of wild life and find that protection of the herds within the park increases the quantity of game that later finds its way out into unprotected land where the hunter holds sway.

Why Egg Did Not Hatch

"Don't count turtle eggs before they're hatched," John Toomey, keeper of the reptile house in the Bronx (N. Y.) zoological gardens, advises. Mrs. Buster, from the Galapagos Islands, laid an egg, the first in twenty-three years, and the keeper laid it away to hatch. Eight weeks later he unburied it and found it bad, just as bad as any egg can be at the end of eight weeks. It had been slightly cracked.

Why Called "Bourbons"

Bourbon used to be applied to the old-fashioned Democrats who were charged with acting unmindful of past experience, like the Bourbon kings of France. The term corresponded somewhat to the "Old Guard" in the Republican party. Nowadays the term is seldom heard.—Pathfinder.

Salt Production

There are four chief methods of obtaining salt in use today. It may be secured by evaporation of the brine from wells sunk into salt beds; by mining; by evaporation of sea water, and by the evaporation of the brine of natural brine springs.

AMBASSADOR MORROW BESIEGED BY JOB HUNTERS

Mexico City, July 19 (AP).—Published reports in Mexican and United States newspapers that Ambassador Morrow was acquiring vast land and water properties in Mexico have brought a flood of applications, letters and telegrams, from people who want to work for him.

The job hunters range their qualifications from ability to milk cows to managing haciendas. Many of the applications are from Mexicans in the United States who wish to return to their home land.

The communications have occasioned considerable surprise at the embassy where it was stated the ambassador owned less than an acre of land in Mexico, that being the plot on which his country home at Cuernavanca is located and which cost him $6,000. As for "purchasing waterfalls on behalf of the General Electric Company" it was said the nearest thing to water power he owned in Mexico was the swimming pool in the back yard of the Cuernavaca place.

It was explained also the ambassador, on accepting his post in Mexico City, disposed of all interest in firms doing business in Mexico so as to be free from associations which might throw suspicion upon his conduct as ambassador.

Where Difficulty Lies

Quite a book might be written on the uninteresting parts of interesting men. A sequel, more readable, could be on the interesting parts of uninteresting men. It may be true that the inclination of the tree owes itself to some earlier twig-bending; but the difficulty lies in the fact that every twig receives so many bendings that you never know which bend will become the ultimate inclination.—Boston Herald.

Local Death Record

Mary, five-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Altamarie, died Thursday at the Benedictine Hospital of burns sustained 22 days ago when her clothing caught fire from an exploding firecracker thrown by some boys as they were passing the Altamarie house. The funeral services of the late Benjamin B. Edsell were held at his late home, 162 Center street, Ellenville on Wednesday afternoon; burial in the Ellenville cemetery. Services were conducted by the Rev. Dr. George R. Wright of the Methodist Church. Pall bearers were C. B. Freer, George B. Holmes, J. Martin Deschler, William Carman, Hubert Roat and Benjamin C. Sparks. The deceased was a native of Ellenville and during his entire life span, which he spent in that village a useful and respected citizen. He died of heart trouble at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Eugene Slater, Monticello, on Saturday, July 13, after an illness lasting two weeks. Born April 10, 1859, the son of Lewis Edsell and his wife, Elizabeth Broas, he received his schooling in the Ellenville schools and then entered the employ of Dwight Divine and Sons. Later he was an employe of the Ellenville Glass Works. From there he became the New York agent of Hunt and Donaldson, predecessors of the present firm of J. R. Hunt, Inc., serving as their New York representative until about 1901, when the Delaware and Hudson canal was discontinued and he returned to Ellenville, to again enter the employ of Dwight Divine and Sons, serving them in various responsible capacities since that time. The latter part of March, this year, he resigned his position as foreman of the material room there, due to failing eyesight and a general weakening of his usual health, giving up a little later his various lodge responsibilities and remained at home except for short visits with his children and their families. On January 27, 1887, Mr. Edsell was married to Jennie Melville of Ellenville of which union, besides the wife, three daughters survive, Ethel, wife of David Brundage and Nina, wife of William Holt, all of Elmira, N. Y., and Leota, wife of Eugene Slater of Monticello, and a grandson, Edsell Brundage. Two brothers, Lewis of Ellenville and Royal of Pelham Manor and three sisters, Mrs. Lewis Bernard of Yonkers, Bertha Edsell and Mrs. Fred Frear of Ellenville, also survive him. Mr. Edsell resigned only recently as secretary of Awosting Lodge, Knights of Pythias, Ellenville, a position he had held for over 20 years. He was also a member of the American Mechanics and president of the Knife Shop Club, a benefit society.

Sudden Death of Elva H. Bogart

Prominent Resident of Kingston Died Suddenly Thursday Evening at His Summer Home Near Ashokan—Long Prominent in Civic and Fraternal Life of City.

Elva H. Bogart, for many years active in the business and political life of Kingston, died suddenly at 11:45 o'clock Thursday evening at his summer home on the mountain top above Ashokan in the town of Olive. While he had not been in the best of health for some time, he was not believed seriously ill. Mr. Bogart was 59 years old. Funeral services will be held Monday afternoon at 2 o'clock from the late residence, 134 Fair street.

Mr. Bogart was long active in the business life of Kingston, being identified for many years with the Browne Manufacturing Company and the Universal Road Machinery Company. He was also widely known in local banking circles and was second vice-president of the Kingston Trust Company.

Deeply interested in the civic welfare of the city he was active along many lines. In politics he was a Democrat, and at one time took an active interest in the work of the Democratic organization. He was at one time the Democratic candidate for mayor of Kingston but was defeated by former Mayor Palmer Canfield.

Mr. Bogart for many years had been active in the Boy Scout movement in Ulster county, and at his death was a member of the Ulster County Boy Scout Council. He was also active in the Ulster County Automobile Club of which he was a past president. He was also formerly president of the A. A. A. of New York state.

He was for many years a partner in the firm of Schultz & Bogart, and still held an interest when the firm became a corporation.

Fraternally Mr. Bogart was a Mason, being a member of Kingston Lodge, No. 10, F. & A. M. He also served the lodge as its master in 1917. He was a Shriner, and for many years an active member of the Ulster County Fish and Game Protective Association, and a member of the Kingston Club.

About a week ago Mr. Bogart went to his summer home as it was thought that the change would improve his health. He was accompanied by his wife and his niece, Miss Adelia Bird, who were with him when he died.

News of his sudden death came as a shock to his wide circle of friends.

WILL DISPLAY SACRED BELT IN CELEBRATION OF TREATY

Niagara Falls, N. Y., July 19 (AP).—For the second time in 150 years a sacred Indian wampum belt will be displayed to the public tomorrow when Indians of the Six Nations celebrate the treaty which allows the free passage of Red Men back and forth across the American-Canadian border unhampered by immigration laws. The wampum was displayed for the first time in 150 years on July 14, 1928, when the Red Men held their first celebration marking their exclusion from immigration regulations.

A band of Indians from northern Quebec will carry the wampum to this city. With it they will bring many other Indian treasures, including a canoe which it is claimed is the first canoe ever built on the North American continent. The wampum will be guarded by Indian warriors.

The celebration tomorrow will start with a parade of Indians in native costume from the city hall at Niagara Falls, Ont., across the Falls View Bridge to an athletic field in this city, where a program of Indian sports will be presented.

Second Play at Maverick Theatre

(F. Gardner Clough)

In spite of threatening weather, there was a large audience that [illegible] the Maverick rustic theatre on Thursday night to see the second play, "Rain," which began a four-night run under the direction of Allan de Lano. It was the first time the popular play had been produced in the author's home area. Clemence Randolph, co-author with John Colton, has made her home at Woodstock for some seasons.

"Rain" seems to have a pulling power, for despite the fact that many Woodstockers had seen the play on Broadway in New York, and that a number of Kingstonians had seen it in the one-time Opera House on Fair street, Kingston, both groups were well represented in the audience.

There were two surprises for the evening. The first was the actual downfall of rain that beat on the roof of the Maverick Theatre, and at times vied with the rain effects designed by Ned Thatcher, Woodstock, and C. J. Browning and Roswell Coles of Kingston. Surely no one was left in doubt but that it rained. The second was the appearance of Gladys Hurlbut, who played the stellar role of Sadie Thompson. No hint had been given out prior to the opening night to the public as to who would play this part. Many theatre-goers who had seen Miss Hurlbut play in "Wedding Bells" opined that she would not fit into the role in "Rain." But she entered the first act with gusto, fitted into the part with a facile talent, and left the stage at the end by convincing her audience that she must hereafter be mentiond along with Jeanne Eagles and Gloria Swanson, stage and screen Sadie Thompsons of "Rain."

The play (for those who haven't seen it) tells the story of a clergyman's over-zeal on an island of the South Seas, where a group of ship passengers are marooned during a four-day rain. There is a deal of humor come from Joe Horn, a trader gone native, whose remarks come from philosophic observation. (This part was well played by Ivan M. Wolfe). Horn is bolstered up by a second humanist, one Dr. McPhail, whose remarks are a foil for the Rev. Alfred Davidson, the chief offender in the drama. E. J. Ballantine played the doctor with his usual dry wit. George Tawde, as Quartermaster Bates, made a riotous exit as an intoxicated seaman, which delighted the audience. Carroll Ashburn played the Reverend; he sustained the part very well, a piece of work deserving praise when done by a young actor.

The play is a direct attack against the cruelty and fanaticism of religious zeal which must make sin before it can allay it. Sadie Thompson is caught in the meshes of the religious bigot, reduced to abject and pitiful mien; she strikes back, employing invectives and curses, but is finally caught, powerless, until the weakness of the missionary turns the tide and frees the woman.

"Rain" is a much needed exposition of religious error that exists today in the rural communities, and as such, doubtless misses its mark because those who have missed it rarely frequent theatres.

The high spot of the Maverick's performance seemed to be at the close of the second act, a duel between the "scarlet woman" and the Reverend. Here Miss Hurlbuts' acting proved her adept not only, but so immersed her in the role that the effect was heightened drama.

"Rain" will be played at the Maverick Theatre the rest of the week, including Sunday, July 21st. Performances begin at 8:45 p. m. It has been announced that Jeanne Eagles will visit Woodstock for one of these nights and appear at the Maverick Theatre in person for the first time she has witnessed "Rain" from the audience side of the stage. Miss Randolph is also expected to attend one of the performances; on Thursday night there were cries of "Author! Author!" but no author appeared in response.

Large attendances are anticipated for the remaining performances of this metropolitan play which the Maverick Theatre group has presented in a metropolitan manner.

GIRL OF 13 DROWNED IN LAKE ERIE UNDERTOW.

Buffalo, July 19 (AP).—Lake Erie's undertow claimed another life yesterday, all attempts to save Frances Lizak, 13, of Lackawanna, being unavailing due to a sharp squall after the girl, bathing at Woodlawn beach, had been swept off her feet. Three of her companions were saved.

The four children refused to leave the water after the storm arose. Suddenly they disappeared from view of older bathers. They were swept out into deep water, the surface of which was lashed into whitecaps.

John Taperik, of Woodlawn, and two other young men braved the waves to race to the assistance of the children, and rescued Lottie Zygmunt, 13, her brother, Joseph, 11, and Dezian Person, 14, of Woodlawn.

No trace was found of the Lizak girl's body.

Florence Shaken By Earthquake

Florence, Italy, July 19 (AP).—Florence was shaken by an earthquake at 10:02 p. m. yesterday. The shock lasted about eight seconds and did considerable damage to walls and roofs in neighboring villages.

Roofs fell and crevices appeared in walls in Borgo, An Lorenzo, Vicchia, Barberino and Firenzuola, but no casualties were reported.

The quake, which was undulatory in character, caused many persons to desert their homes and spend the night in the open. The epicenter of the quake was believed to be about 25 miles distant.

ASKS FARM BOARD TO CONSIDER COTTON SITUATION.

Washington, July 19 (AP).—Senator Connally, Democrat, Texas, appealed to the Federal Farm Board today to give early consideration to the cotton situation.

The Texas Senator urged the Board to set up a statistical bureau as the first step in pointing the way to a consideration of cotton conditions.

Carl Williams, of Oklahoma, the cotton representative on the board, assured Senator Connally that as soon as the board had determined its policies the cotton situation would receive consideration.

Houston Plane Still in Air.

Houston, Texas, July 19 (AP)—Nearing the end of its second day in the air, the endurance monoplane, "Houston—Billion Dollar City," piloted by Glenn L. Loomis and Joe Glass, still was aloft early today. The plane took off at 1:49:54 a. m. Wednesday.

GIRL KILLS FATHER WHO ATTEMPTED TO ATTACK HER.

Keyport, N. J., July 19 (AP).—Elizabeth Crawford, 22, today told neighbors she had shot and killed her father, George, when he attempted to attack her in his bedroom early today.

"When mother went to Freehold this morning to work," the girl told Mr. and Mrs. Chester Walling, "daddy called me into his bedroom.

"Then I became afraid, and saw the revolver that daddy always carried, on the top of the dresser, picked it up and shot him in the stomach. Daddy ran out into the hall and cried for my brother, shouting 'Buster, I'm shot', and then he fell on his face in the hall."

The body of the father was found outside the bedroom where the child said he had fallen.

In Surrogate's Court.

ELEVEN INJURED WHEN MARKET FLOOR COLLAPSES

New York, July 19 (AP).—Eleven persons, most of them women, were injured today when the concrete floor of the Peerless Market in Avenue C, in the East Side, collapsed and pitched patrons and employes into the cellar.

The market was crowded with women doing their shopping early in preparation for the Jewish Sabbath. When the floor caved in, a gas pipe was severed and one woman was seriously affected by the escaping fumes.

Refuse to Ratify French Debt Pact

Paris, July 19 (AP).—[illegible] a compromise by which [illegible] the foreign debt [illegible] would be [illegible] resolution or [illegible] today when the finance committee of the Chamber of Deputies [illegible] unanimously declared itself in favor of incorporating the reservations in the text of the bill itself. This is in direct opposition to the declared [illegible] of Premier Poincare.

The committee rejected all the compromise texts proposed to it [illegible] firmly maintaining its opposition to unconditional ratification of the Mellon-Berenger accord.

It also decided that the Chamber must continue its session tonight and tomorrow, instead of postponing the debate until Monday or Tuesday, unless Premier Poincare himself should request the suspension on account of ill-health.

The premier, although he is feeling better, still suffers from a slight intestinal infection and his doctors have refused to permit him to visit the Chamber before Monday.

Tagging Major League Bases

By WILLIAM J. CHIPMAN,
Associated Press Sports Writer

The first phase of John McGraw's own personal [illegible] the [illegible] Pirates has just [illegible] result Joe McCarthy aimed [illegible] have asked. The Giants turned back the Pirates by 4 to 1 as the McCarthy troops swept through the paper defenses of the Robins in Flatbush for an 11 to 7 decision. The Pirates remained on the top perch in the league standing but they enjoyed a margin of less than one full game.

Another Chicago victory today, matched by another Pirate defeat, would send the Cubs back to the top by a percentage margin with the standing in games a virtual tie. The Bruins have not been at the head of the class since they divided morning and afternoon games with the Cincinnati Reds on the Fourth of July.

The first effort of the Giants against the Pirates was successful largely because of the wizardry with which Carl Hubbell served up his southpaw shoots. This budding Pittsburgh nemesis held the Buccaneers to six scattered hits, and permitted none of their number to advance beyond second base until the ninth when Paul Waner was permitted to run wild after getting a single.

On their own account, the Giants larruped Ervin Brame for two runs in the second and two more in the third. With Hubbell in such form, these were more than enough, although Fussell and Swetonic stopped the home forces more or less abruptly in the later innings.

The Cubs began their day in Brooklyn with a seven-run onslaught in the first which broke Clise Dudley and bent Ray Moss. From that point onward it was merely a Chicago breeze, although the Robins did fire away at Hal Carlson with such vigor in the sixth that Joe McCarthy deemed it wise to send out Art Nehf to finish the game.

A five-run rally in the eighth enabled Old Alex the Great to pick up credit for the Cardinals' 6 to 4 victory over the Braves. Alex gave way to batting relief in the big inning, and Fred Frankhouse finished. The Phillies turned back Cincinnati by 6 to 4 in a game noteworthy because no one hit a home run.

The Yankees were rained out in Cleveland, and the Athletics picked up a technical advantage of half a game by defeating Detroit, 8 to 4. The Mackmen's margin now is eight and one-half contests.

More important to Connie Mack than this paper advantage of having won a game which the Yankees have yet to play was the showing of George Walberg, who in recent games had threatened to enter a slump. Walberg gave the Bengals nine hits, but so scattered these that the afternoon was an Athletic walkover. The Tigers scored three of their runs in the ninth when the Athletics were more or less indifferent to advances by the home boys on the bases.

George Uhle was handicapped by five neat errors among his supporters, but the Macks hit out enough earned runs to swing the decision to Walberg.

Washington opened its stay in St. Louis by winning a wild 10 to 3 decision. Seven Washington runs in the seventh decided the issue.

The veteran Red Faber shaded Danny McFayden in a fine pitching battle at Chicago, and the White Sox defeated the Red Sox by 2 to 1 in ten innings.

DESPITE "SPECKS," HAFEY IS A STAR

Was Declared Through, but Returned to Lead Sluggers.

"Chick" Hafey of the St. Louis Cardinals, a player [illegible] by hard luck since he [illegible] into fast company, is coming into his own.

For a time it seemed as though sinus trouble and other handicaps might force Hafey out of the National league and possibly cause him to give up baseball altogether.

"Chick" couldn't see the length of his bat for a time. Now he is out in front of the home run parade, with a fine lead towards seasonal honors and every fan who has followed his ups and downs is rooting hard for him.

Hafey hit two home runs the other day to help the St. Louis Cardinals beat the Cincinnati Reds. His first drive cleared the scoreboard at Redland park which is 415 feet from home plate and 25 feet high.

This was the longest blow ever made in Cincinnati. A little later, Hafey drove another homer over the left field fence.

In the opening game of the season, "Chick" hit a homer off Red Lucas, who had been working effectively, enabling the Cardinals to start the pennant race with a victory.

Hafey's optician soon will start advertising, for "Chick" took to glasses as a last resort and with pronounced success.

Few ball players have made good behind spectacles in fast company. There was Lee Meadows, for one, and the rest can be counted on the fingers of one hand.

When he finally decided to resort to glasses, "Chick" confessed that it seemed to him like a last resort.

"I'll try them for a season, and then if I can't make good I'll get out and admit I'm licked," he said early this year.

From the way he is going he apparently will make good, and his return to form may mean big things for the National league champions.

Hafey has had hard luck practically ever since he came up to the majors, although he has been recognized as one of the best outfielders in the game. He is a native of Berkeley, Calif., Helen Wills' home town, and is twenty-six years old.

Job for Niehoff

Bert Niehoff, who according to rumor is to manage a major league team within a short time. He is now one of Manager McGraw's coaches.

PITCHING DAYS OF WALSH AND SON

Trainer Buckner of White Sox Spins Yarn of Hurlers.

An off day in the schedule and few White Sox feats of magic to boast of, but here is the every-ready William Buckner, the trainer, and he has a story.

Old Buck is not as young as he used to be but he can still concoct some interesting yarns. Let him tell his latest, writes John C. Hoffman in the Chicago Daily News.

"I came to Chicago when it was little more than a trading camp," the venerable masseur began. "The White Sox pitching staff consisted of Ed Walsh, Doc White, Nick Altrock, Frank 'Piano Mover' Smith and Frank Owens. In 1908, big Ed worked in sixty-five games and won forty of them.

"But this is what makes me feel like an old man. Big Ed had a three-year-old son in those days. I was charged with the youngster whenever big Ed would go out to pitch and that was most of the time. Little Ed would yell at the top of his voice and I would have to give him a stick of candy. He loved stick candy, you know, the kind that looks like the barber shop sign.

"Well, we were in Cleveland one day when somebody had allowed the bases to become congested. Big Ed was in there before the other pitcher could get out and I took charge of the youngster, who by this time had smeared the candy all over his hair and clothes.

"'I want my daddy,' the boy screamed. But here was one of the biggest moments I have ever seen in baseball. There are three men on, the fans are yelling, the kid is yelling in my ears, three wild men are pawing the dirt like wild horses and Walter Birmingham and Larry Lajoie are waiting to bat. Nobody is out.

"Well, to make a short story shorter, I stuffed cotton into the kid's mouth. Big Ed wound up and three went out on ten pitches. One of them was a ball. The other nine were strikes."

That was twenty-one years ago. The other day the tables were turned. Big Ed was on the sidelines. Little Ed, having consumed his stick candy, was pitching. And how he pitched.

Young Ed pitched so well that the Browns made only four hits off him while his comrades slammed out a 5 to 3 victory. For eight innings, the Browns could produce only two hits. Three runs in the ninth were the result of two hits, a walk and a boot by Metzler.

Little Ed is not as little as he used to be. Big Ed is not as young as he used to be. But you must admit the Walshes can pitch, stick candy or no stick candy.

Former Feather Champion After Lightweight Crown

Sammy, the champion, and Tony, the challenger, meet over the 10-round route in Chicago, August 2, with Sammy's lightweight title at stake.

Sport Slants

By Alan J. Gould,
(Associated Press Sports Editor.)

New York, July 19 (AP)—Young Mr. Charles Klein, of the Klouting Kleins of Philadelphia, if he does not actually threaten the celebrated home run record of Babe Ruth this season, at least stands an excellent chance of toppling the seven-year-old National League record of 42, set by Rogers Hornsby in 1922.

This is only one of the diverting possibilities of the current carnival of clout in the National League, which, by design or otherwise, has at least taken away some of the spotlight which has been focussed almost exclusively on the American League group led by Mr. Ruth since home run slugging was popularized. Young Messrs. Klein, Ott, O'Doul and others of the new slugging circus are hitting as dizzy a clip as the well-known firm of Ruth and Gehrig ever experienced.

League and club records for distance hitting are already on the chutes but the center of interest now is Klein, who at this stage of the season is only two blows short of the pace that Ruth set in 1927 when he boosted his own season's record total to 60 homers. On July 19 of that campaign the Babe had collected exactly half of his final total. Klein, prior to today's game had 28 and led both leagues. Ruth, although handicapped by illness, a layoff of several weeks and now a sprained knee has 22 circuit blows to his credit.

It probably is asking too much of Master Klein in his first full season as a regular to knock off the Babe's great record but even with a jackrabbit ball and a short right field target, it is little short of miraculous for the Phillie star to maintain the pace he has done.

He not only is in a fair way to eclipse Hornsby's National League record for a season's total, needing only 15 more homers to do so, but he may also be the first National Leaguer to enter the Ruthian class of 50 or more for one year. The Babe has passed the 50 mark four times.

Only twice in the last decade has a National Leaguer led the home run procession. On both occasions it was Hornsby, who led both leagues with 42 homers in 1922, the season of Ruth's suspension until the middle of May, and again with 39 in 1925, when the Yankee star was laid up until June with his famous stomach-ache. Cy Williams, the old Philly slugger, tied Ruth with 41 in 1923 but otherwise the king has ruled alone.

Loughran to Fight as Heavy.

New York, July 19 (AP)—Tommy Loughran announced early today that the light heavyweight throne was vacant and that he would seek the permission of various boxing commissions to campaign hereafter as a heavyweight.

No Virtue in Haste

Business dispatched is business well done, but business hurried is ill done. —Bulwer-Lytton.

Tommy Loughran Retains Crown

New York, July 19 (AP)—Tommy Loughran was still ruler of the light heavyweight brigade today and James J. Braddock, Jersey City puncher, had only a boxing lesson to show for his meteoric climb to the rank of contender.

Loughran in a 15-round titular battle at the Yankee Stadium last night piled up points over Braddock with a stabbing left hand and easily won the decision.

Not once during the struggle could Braddock land squarely with his right hand, without which the Jersey youngster would not have deserved to be in the same ring with the champion. With that right hand Braddock had broken Pete Latzo's jaw; knocked out Tuffy Griffith in two rounds and stopped the Buffalo speedster, Jimmy Slattery, in nine rounds.

Against Loughran, however, Braddock could find no use for his most potent weapon. Outspeeded and outsmarted all the way, the Jersey lad found the champion's left always ready to catch the wild over-hand rights that came his way.

Never has Loughran appeared to better advantage. His educated left hand spent most of the evening in Braddock's face. With it he kept the challenger off balance, this neutralizing the undoubted power Braddock has in his fists.

Of the 15 rounds Braddock won only two, all the others going to the champion. There were no knockdowns, nor even a threat of one, but there was plenty of blood. Loughran bled freely all through the fight from two bad cuts, one over his left eye and the other in his scalp. Braddock was troubled by blood that streamed from a gash along his right eye.

Loughran started slowly, giving ground all the way in the first round as Braddock forced the fighting. In the first clinch, Loughran suffered the cut over his eye and, bothered by the flow of blood, was content to keep on the defensive.

The second round was a repetition of the first, Loughran fighting cautiously until he learned what sort of a defense he would need. One wild overhand right in this round caught the champion off his guard and forced him to the ropes where Braddock scored effectively with short rights and lefts to the body.

After this, however, Loughran was in complete command of the situation.

Germans Meet U. S. Players

Berlin, July 19 (AP)—Proud of their rapid rise in sports, Germans by the thousands turned their thoughts today to the encounter between their best tennis players and those of the United States, meeting at the Red and White Club in the interzone finals of the Davis Cup competition.

To have reached this stage in the great international competition is one of the finest feathers that has been put in Germany's hat since the country began to take sport seriously with the end of the World War. Tickets for the matches, which will occupy three afternoons were difficult to obtain today and those who are lucky enough to find them must pay four or five times the printed price.

Having beaten England in the European zone final, the German players and their admiring public are not at all pessimistic over their chances against the Americans.

"We did not expect to beat England but we did. We don't expect to beat America but we might," just about sums up the attitude of the German tennis writers and those fans who believe what they read in the papers.

Ruby Wants Game.

The Ruby Robins would like to hear from some team in Kingston for a game for Sunday to be played in Kingston. The Ruby team was to play in Haines Falls Sunday but the game was put off until a week from this Sunday. For games see William Longendyke, 8 Hurley avenue, or call 791.

FIGHTS LAST NIGHT

(By The Associated Press)

New York—Tommy Loughran, world light heavyweight champion, outpointed James J. Braddock, Jersey City, (15); Buddy Howard, New Haven, Conn., knocked out Charley Noyett, New York, (2); Dave Shade, California, outpointed Rene DeVos, Belgium, (10).

Chicago—Billy Shaw, Detroit, defeated Earl Mastro, Chicago, foul (5); Joey Medill, Chicago, outpointed Spug Myers, Pocatello, Idaho, (10); Al Greenfield, Chicago, outpointed Harry Dublinsky, Chicago, (10).

Kansas City, Mo.—W. L. Stribling, Macon, Ga., outpointed George Cook, Australia, (10); Babe Hunt, Ponca City, Okla., knocked out Sully Montgomery, (2).

RED SOX TO PLAY ELLENVILLE SUNDAY.

The Kingston Red Sox will play Ellenville Sunday at the latter's diamond. The Red Sox are expecting to have Paul Joyce, the former Kingston High School pitching ace. Quick will do the hurling for Ellenville.

The Red Sox have challenged the Pan-Am Club to a game or to a series of games. As yet the challenge had not been accepted. Should a series of games be played between these two clubs it would be mighty interesting to the fans, as the teams are evenly matched.

Nick Zinna and Leiner Battle In Main Bout

The main bout tonight has something in store for the fans who attend the program at the armory. It is scheduled for ten rounds and during this time Nick Zinna of this city will be in the ring defending his National guard lightweight and junior welterweight crown of the Hudson Valley from the clever New York boy, Maxie Leiner.

Nick Zinna has not fought in some time, but it is said he has kept himself in good condition by constant training. Maxie will have some tough opposition when he is fighting Zinna, but Leiner must be good for he has headed the cards in many fights held in the New York armories.

In the three six round bouts, Kid Buckman vs. Young Moffatt of New York; Johnny Blaine vs. Dick Cruze of New York; Johnny Cuccio, New York, vs. Albert Lamont of New York. Both Buckman and Blaine are Kingston boys.

The four round bout will bring together Ted Mayone of this city and Charlie Garrison also a local fighter.

Ray Miller at Woodcliff.

At the Woodcliff Park boxing show next week Ray Miller of Chicago lightweight will make his appearance. Miller has knocked out such men as Sid Terris, Jimmy McLarnin and Lope Tenario. He will be featured in the main bout with Joey Abrams a boy who is said never to have been knocked off his feet during his boxing career. The bout is scheduled to go ten rounds.

Grand Jury Probe Of Convent Raid

Los Angeles, July 15 (AP)—Preparations for a grand jury investigation to fix responsibility for the "tip" which led District Attorney Buron Fitts' prohibition agents to raid a Roman Catholic convent in Belvedere, a suburb, without a search warrant, were being made by the county prosecutor today.

The prohibition agents forced their way into the convent on the night of July 10 after they had been refused admittance. They found no incriminating evidence. Fitts announced Wednesday night that apologies had been made and damage to the convent paid for, and that no further raids were to be made without search warrants.

The prosecutor announced last night that at least four officers of his prohibition detail would be dismissed.

World's Finest Marbles

The Greeks were blessed with an almost inexhaustible supply of the finest and purest marble yet discovered on the island of Paros in the Aegean sea. This marble is called "Parian" and possesses a peculiar waxy attribute. The marble of Carrara was not generally put in use until later years. It is among the finest varieties in the world, but has gray streaks.

Zero

Dr. Rufus Jones, in a plea for a better and more practical system of education, summed up his idea of the prevailing situation by saying: "The scientist knows more about less, the philosopher less about more and in the end, we know nothing about everything."

POULTRY

TURKEYS RAISED IN CONFINEMENT

Better Results Secured Than Where Poults Are Free.

In times past many people felt that turkeys could not be raised in confinement but that they should have a large area over which to range. This contention has changed now, however, and in several localities turkeys have been raised in confinement with a great deal of success.

The Minnesota and Nebraska experiment stations have been among the leaders in investigational work in turkey production. In recent years, with some such work being done at other experiment stations in various parts of the country. At both of the stations mentioned it was found that better results could be secured if the poults were raised in confinement than if they were allowed to range over a large area, the method once followed in turkey production. In view of these findings, those who wish to go into turkey production, either on a small or large scale, are no doubt interested in the practices to be adhered to in this method of turkey raising.

The United States Department of Agriculture has found that turkey production has declined consistently since 1890, in the face of an increase in the production of all other lines of poultry and live stock. This decrease in production cannot be attributed to a decrease in demand, for the demand has always exceeded the production, or at least, there has never been a surplus of turkeys on the market with which to contend.

This decline in turkey production can be explained almost altogether by the fact that farmers have always felt that turkeys should have unlimited range. Because of following this method of production the turkeys came in contact with the chicken yards, to the detriment of the turkey business. The disease problem among turkeys which come in contact with chickens is great enough that it has tended to cut down on production among farmers and farmers' wives who have, in the past, raised turkeys and chickens together on the same range.

In the Nebraska investigations it was found that the old method of raising the turkeys on the open range with natural hatching and brooding by turkey hens was not successful. On the other hand, artificial brooding and hatching, by means of which feed and environment could be kept under the control of the producer, was found to yield very good results.

Electric Brooders Are Clean and Convenient

The New York experiment station found electric brooders very satisfactory except in extremely cold weather, when this type of heat did not warm up the space in the house away from the brooder. Like electric incubators, brooders heated by electricity are clean, easy to regulate and very convenient.

Individual farm light plants extend the advantages of this electrical equipment to farms which are not located on an electric "high line." Because many farm plants are equipped with both generator and battery power, the supply of current for the incubator or brooder is constant and reliable.

Aylesbury Duck Meets Favor as Market Fowl

The Aylesbury duck comes from the Vale of Aylesbury, from which fact it derives its name. It is the market duck of England. It has a long body, deep keel, and legs placed a little behind the center of the body.

The Pekin is Chinese, and is the most popular market duck in America. Its legs are set far back, giving an upright carriage.

While the Indian Runner is not a popular market duck on account of its small size, its flesh is tender and palatable, and its foraging habits give it a game quality that will make it in demand with epicures.

Watch Young Birds

Watch young and delicate birds very closely as they are most susceptible to the deadly roup germs. The same is true of fowls suffering from common cold or catarrh. The throat and nasal passages, being already sore and inflamed, are easily infected. Sick birds should always be isolated. They can be much more effectively treated when away from the flock and they cannot contaminate the healthier ones if the disease should prove to be contagious.

Don't Hurry Pullets

It is best not to hurry the pullets into heavy production. Allow them to come into production normally without feeding highly stimulating feeds. Fewer "blow outs" will occur when production is not forced on the start. Feed two parts of grain to one part of mash. The pullets will continue to gain in weight and still receive enough protein to encourage the egg organs to function without interfering with growth. Any change in feed is to be discouraged.

Kingston Nurses Attend Congress

The greatest congress of women ever held in Canada, and one of the most representative that has taken place in any country, was opened at Montreal on July 8 with the sixth quadrennial Congress of the International Council of Nurses, presided over by Miss Nina D. Gage, its president. The Forum in Montreal was a most inspiring sight, hung with the flags of many of the fifty-eight countries with whom the council has touch. In the assembly were seen a dainty Japanese nurse, a group of statuesque Scandinavians, others with Slav or Latin traits. One nurse in the navy blue uniform of the Red Cross with a string of medals was Miss T. Hagiwara, superintendent of the Red Cross Hospital at Tokio, and sprinkled among the crowd heads of the most historic hospitals of the Old World.

One outstanding feature of the Congress was the National Nurses Associations from five countries being received into the International Congress of Nurses. With some 6,000 nurses in costumes ranging from demure simplicity of religious orders to the exotic brilliance of Oriental national dress, the Forum provided a colorful international ceremony.

Kingston was represented at the Congress by Miss Katherine Murphy and Miss Bessie Costello of the Kingston Hospital Alumnae, and Miss Anne C. Cassidy and Miss Lilian Hagelweide of the Benedictine Hospital Alumnae.

LARGE CROWD ENJOYS "THE CRADLE SNATCHERS".

Mannerchor Picnic.

The Rondout Social Mannerchor will hold their annual picnic on Sunday, July 21, at Dunneman's Grove, Lucas avenue. The neighboring associations from Poughkeepsie and Newburgh have been invited and each promised to be represented by a strong delegation. The public is invited. In case of rain, the picnic will be held the following Sunday.
